Informant Started Ford Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi and other top Justice Department officials handed the Watergate special prosecutor the information that started his investigation into President Ford's congressional campaign finances, a department official says.

The Justice Department's involvement began when an unidentified informant told the department was made to send the matter to Watergate Special Prosecutor Charles Ruff.

The department official said Tyler sent Ruff a memo in July describing the informant's allegation because Ruff is responsible for investigating any charges of campaign financing irregularities.

In the last two weeks, investigators under Ruff have been would come to that conclusion. Asked if he thought the investigation was politically motivated, the President said he "would not under any circumstances question the motivation or the timing" and he said he had "full confidence" in Ruff.

Ford also said he had instructed his staff to refrain from asking Ruff what the investigation was all about because Ford said he thought any such approach could be "misconstrued."

Ford's views apparently conflict with those of Sen. Bob Dole, Ford's vice presidential running mate, and other Republicans who have suggested Ruff's probe is politically motivated because it surfaced so close to the Nov. 2 election.

The Justice Department official said that when Tyler sent his memo to Ruff in July, Tyler was uncertain whether the FBI informant's allegation involved Ford.

Since then, Tyler and other

Justice Department officials have kept an "arms-length attitude" toward Ruff's work in order to avoid any appearance of impropriety, the official said. As a result, Tyler and other Justice Department officials have no knowledge of the status of Ruff's work and Ruff does not have to keep the department informed, the official said.

The Justice Department has no reason to believe Ruff is "doing anything irresponsible," the official said.

The official quoted Tyler as saying only three matters have been referred by the Justice Department to the special prosecutor during the past 18 months.

President Told Staff Members Not To Impede Investigation

FBI about alleged campaign spending irregularities in Ford's former congressional district in Grand Rapids, Mich., the official said Thursday night.

The FBI referred the informant's allegation to Levi, a member of Ford's Cabinet. After Levi conferred with Deputy Atty. Gen. Harold R. Tyler, FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley and other top Justice Department officials, the examining financial records of Republican campaign organizations in Kent County, Mich., and Grand Rapids. Published reports say the investigators are seeking to determine whether any contributions to the GOP organization were illegally diverted to Ford's personal use.

Ford told reporters Thursday that he had never diverted any campaign funds and he said he was confident that Ruff's probe

SJ Attorney Sentenced To Probation, Jail Term

BY SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

St. Joseph Atty. Robert B. Locke, the first person indicted by the Berrien citizens' grand jury, was sentenced yesterday in Berrien Circuit court to two years probation with the last six months in jail for embezzlement.

Locke, 64, was sentenced by visiting judge George Corsiglia of Allegan Circuit court for a no contest plea to a charge of embezzlement by an agent over $100. He was accused of embezzling $13,974 from a Niles businessman.

Richard Senter, administrator for the State Bar Grievance board, declined to comment specifically on Locke's case when contacted by The Herald-Palladium. But he explained that any attorney convicted of a felony is called before a three-member panel for a hearing, and penalties could range from disbarment to a reprimand. One of the conditions of probation imposed by Corsiglia was that Locke make complete restitution of "the misappropriated funds." The judge noted that if he didn't feel the entire amount would be paid back "I would be of the opinion that because of the severe nature (of the offense) a substantial period of incarceration would be necessary."

Corsiglia added that because restitution can apparently be made he decided to impose a probationary term rather than incarcerate Locke. The judge also ordered that Locke not practice law while on probation.

Of the jail term, Corsiglia noted that Locke can petition the court to suspend the jail sentence if Locke abides by the terms of probation. "The court may or may not grant that (request)," he said. "It's extremely important for the res-

Probe Plows Old Ground--Milliken

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken says he doesn't expect anything to come of a Watergate prosecutor's investigation into the old Congressional campaign finances of President Ford.

Milliken said before leaving for Washington, D.C. Thursday that he believes the investigation is on "ground that has been plowed before." Milliken said Ford underwent "the most careful scrutiny in the history of the country" before he was confirmed as vice president.

"A very legitimate question" can be raised about possible political motivation for the latest probe, Milliken said.

In a wideranging news conference, Milliken also said his trip to Washington was planned to show Ford he has strong support from "the moderate and progressive wing" of the Republican party.

He denied the meeting with other moderates and with Ford was intended to ward off a possible conservative trend in the GOP. Milliken did say, however, he hoped moderates and progressives could remain organized to exert future influence on the party.

On another subject, Milliken said he does not expect to decide the fate of Project Seafarer until next year.

He said sufficient environmental impact data will not be compiled in time for him to decide on Seafarer before the Nov. 2 election and probably not until 1977.

Seafarer, the Navy's proposed underground communications grid in the Upper Peninsula, has become an important campaign issue with U.P. lawmakers. Milliken recently turned down a request by GOP Congressman Philip Ruppe, R-Houghton, for an immediate veto of the project. The governor said at the time more environmental impact data must be collected so a decision will be based on scientific evidence. After leadership meetings with Ruppe's Democratic opponent, Francis Brouillette, the Democratic-controlled state Senate also has urged an immediate veto by Milliken.

SUPER TOOTH: Vern Johnson of Gobles holds what he and his wife believe is tooth of now extinct mammoth, long haired, elephant-like animal that once roamed North America. Earlier this month, Johnson was using sub-soiler to turn ground usually under water when he discovered nine pound rock-like remnant. Tentative identification was made through books at Kalamazoo library by library personnel. Johnson said tooth has stirred his curiosity and he wonders now if more of pre-historic creature's skeleton lies buried on his farmland. (Margaret Norman photo)

Ali Will Hang Up Gloves

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — World heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali said today he is quitting fighting to devote himself to spreading the Moslem faith throughout the world.

"As of now," Ali told a crowd of reporters and photographers, "I am quitting boxing and will devote all my energy to the propagation of the Moslem faith."

Ali said his decision to end his boxing career came at the urging of Wallace Muhammad, leader of the Black Moslem community in the United States, who is also in Turkey at the invitation of the pro-Moslem National Salvation party.

Ali, who successfully defended his title Tuesday night in New York against Ken Norton, made his comments at a news conference in the Istanbul governor's office.

"Mark my words and play what I say right now fully," Ali said. "At the urging of my leader Wallace, I declare that I am quitting fighting as of now and from now on I will join in the struggle for the Islamic cause."

Wallace said Ali has already contributed greatly to the Moslem community in America and expressed the desire that he will devote more attention to the faith after he retires.

Turkey's deputy premier, Necmettin Erbakan, and State Minister Hasan Aksay, both members of the Salvation party, applauded Ali's announcement. Erbakan wished him "a victorious result in carrying the sword of Islam throughout the world."

After the conference Ali and the entourage attended noon prayers at the early 18th century Blue Mosque under the guidance of a muezzin and the preaching of Religious Affairs Minister Suleyman Ates.

Ali's schedule in the afternoon included a sightseeing tour at the Topkapi Palace, once the seat of the Ottoman sultans but now a museum, and a boat ride through the Bosphorus, which separates Europe and Asia.

Ali flies home early Saturday.

STICKERS UNSTUCK: Brightly-colored stickers on beer and soft-drink cartons urging "no" vote on referendum against throwaway containers must come off, state Liquor Control Commission ruled Thursday. Commission says stickers constitute political advertising, which is forbidden where spirits are sold. (AP Wirephoto)

Bottle Ban Foes Lose 'Sticker War' Skirmish

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Liquor Control Commission says it will not allow beverage distributors to wage a sticker war against a throwaway bottle ban at licensed beverage retail outlets. Commission Chairman Stanley Thayer said Thursday the commission has received complaints from supporters of the proposal as well as from some retailers.

Beverage distributors have been applying brightly-colored "anti-proposal A" stickers to six-packs of soft drinks and beer, and also supplying the stickers to retailers to apply themselves. Proposal A on the November ballot would ban non-returnable beverage containers and require deposits on cans and bottles. The stickers are part of a campaign against the proposal by the Committee Against Forced Deposits, a group largely made up of representatives from the bottling industry, container manufacturers, retailers and organized labor.

The bottle and beverage industries have mounted an extensive campaign against the proposal, claiming it would cost jobs and inconvenience consumers without protecting the environment. But the Liquor Control Commission said it is against its rules for licensed outlets to engage in such political activity. The commission said the stickers constitute political advertising and voted unanimously for the ban. Just hours before the ruling Thursday, the Michigan Food Dealers Association had sent its 2,600 members a memo saying the stickers don't violate the law. Don Taylor, the association's executive director, called the ban "a low blow from the front office."

Taylor charged the liquor commission decision was prompted by Gov. William Milliken's support of the ballot proposal.

"You've got to remember that every one of these commissioners is appointed by the governor," Taylor said. "It's just another case of the governor not wanting the people of Michigan to know the true facts on Proposal A." In a related development, a Detroit radio station Thursday said it is giving free air time to supporters of the measure, to counter paid commercials by the proposal's opponents. Spokesmen for the station, WJR, said the decision was made because of a Federal Communications Commission rule requiring a broadcast facility to present a balanced view of controversial issues, even if one side can't afford to pay.

Panel Disbars State Lawmaker

DETROIT (AP) — State Rep. Monte R. Gerald, D-Madison Heights, has been ordered permanently disbarred from practicing law in Michigan for misusing a client's money.

A three-member State Bar Association panel found Gerald guilty Thursday of using a client's money to buy stock for himself and to make a down-payment on his office building, while he was serving as mayor of Madison Heights.

The panel called the 41-year-old Gerald's conduct "contrary to justice, ethics, honesty and good morals."

Gerald said Thursday he will appeal the order to the State Bar Association's grievance board. "It's a bad decision," he said from his Lansing office. "I can't believe it." He said the order will not change his plans to seek a second term in November as state representative.

The panel, headed by Charles Heigle, found Gerald guilty of co-mingling the funds of Bloomfield Hills heiress Geraldine Patria with his own money. He was found innocent of failing to initiate legal action on her behalf and of failing to post a $20,000 redemption bond on a cottage she owned.

Gerald said Mrs. Patria owed him more than $12,000 in attorney's fees. He said he had not given her a bill because it would have been "a useless act." He said Mrs. Patria had told him she didn't have enough money to cover his fees.

Mrs. Patria said she first met Gerald when he was her attorney during her 1968 divorce.

"The whole heart of this thing has to relate to the many years I served Mrs. Patria in a most unusual relationship and handled thousands of dollars for her, paid her rents and loaned her money," Gerald said.

"The (state bar) canons say money may be removed from bank accounts when money is due. The panel didn't deal with that, and that's the issue," Gerald added.

Heigle said the panel's verdicts were unanimous following eight days of hearings that began in February. He described the order as "the toughest punishment" the panel could give.

State Bar General Counsel Louis Rosenzweig said Gerald has 20 days to appeal the order to the grievance board. If the board upholds the order, Gerald may also appeal to the Michigan Supreme Court.

Although the panel's order is

called permanent, Gerald could petition to be reinstated to the State Bar after five years.

Gerald was a Madison Heights council member from 1964 to 1969 and was the city's mayor from 1969 until he resigned in August 1972. He was elected to the state House in 1974.

The three-count complaint was filed against Gerald last December.

During testimony at the hearings, Gerald acknowledged he had purchased 4,000 shares of stock worth $13,000 in 1971 from

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

Blossom Festival Already Long Enough

The board of directors of Blossomtime, Inc., should reconsider and reverse its decision to expand the annual Blossom Festival from one week to one month of activities.

If extra money and manpower are lying around begging to be used, then both should be applied to improving the quality of the festival, not to prolonging it.

Blossomtime, Inc. should recall what the festival's purpose is: to obtain state and national publicity that will help sell the fruit from Southwestern Michigan orchards and fields.

This can best be accomplished by putting on one outstanding spectacle, namely: a grand floral parade good enough to bring TV cameras and news photographers from far and wide.

This has definitely not been the case since the festival was resurrected after being discontinued during World War II.

Coverage of the festival is largely limited to competing broadcast and press media in the Southwestern Michigan area itself. Major market coverage other than Chicago and Detroit is virtually nil. And it's sporadic and uncertain even in those two nearby metropolises.

The Blossom Festival doesn't begin to capture the national audience that the Holland Tulip Festival gets, for example.

This newspaper is not knocking the hundreds of thousands of people who work on or participate in the parade each year. Our interest and support is demonstrated by the fact that The Herald-Palladium is the only medium that provides coverage of every community queen selection and of every Blossomtime activity.

But the fact is that the parade as it now exists simply does not provide an attraction sufficient for widespread coverage outside the local community.

If there is going to be national publicity, it'll have to come from the parade; it's the only event that can be built up to commanding proportions.

Mrs. Phyllis Taylor Dowsett, executive director of Blossomtime, said yesterday that "We believe expansion of the festival to a month will give every organization which wants to participate, an opportunity to play a part in what is truly a work-together community activity."

Community togetherness is a fine byproduct of the festival. But it is not the major point. Expansion of the festival to include new activities and quadruple its duration very likely will strain the festival's budget and the local community's patience. It seems likely, too, to sap the energy that can be devoted to the two potentially biggest draws: the parade and the queen selection.

Prolongation very well might also reduce the intensity with which the print and broadcast media in even the local area can afford to cover festival events.

Communities start choosing their queens as early as February. The floral parade winds up the activities in May. That's a span of nearly four full months. It's enough. And a week of intensive festival activities is enough.

If new money and energy are available for the festival, they should be put into jazzing up the parade so it becomes a genuine national newsmaker.

The Business World's Timeless Lament

For all the constant reminding by brokers, stock analysts, lawyers, accountants and everyone else counselling on investments, relatively few stockholders in publicly held corporations follow the affairs of their companies and even a lesser number attend their annual meetings.

A free lunch can promote attendance. Some times a plant tour will draw a crowd of sorts. Another promotional effort is taking in a meeting where Wilma Soss or the Gilbert brothers, whose hobby is to bait management, are expected to be on hand. They supply boardroom entertainment not found on the stage, in the movies or through the boob tube.

The reasons for this diffidence vary. The distance between home and the meeting place weighs heavily with many shareholders. The vast majority of stockholders, except those under an employee stock option plan, know little about the company in which their holdings are placed. Finally, if things are going well with the Widget Company or seem to be, the prevalent attitude is why bother to attend.

One sure fire attendance getter is the reverse of that third reason.

If Widgets begins to slump or skips its dividend, the stockholder audience is instantaneous, large and belligerent.

The management at Lockheed Aircraft Corporation ran into something of that buzz saw the other day at a special meeting of stockholders held at Burbank, California.

The directors called the session to obtain stockholder approval of a plan to ease the company's strained credit condition. It has been struggling for eight years with a debt load which presently totals $887 million.

The directors were cocked and primed to answer what they felt would be uppermost in the audience's mind, namely, some $25 million in sidekicks to highly-placed foreigners as a way of getting into their countries' purchasing policies.

The disclosure has badly singed Prince Bernhard of Holland. The Japanese government is teetering. West Germans are incensed.

The practice drew nary an inquiry from the floor. In fact it only came up in the 2½-hour session via a speech from the board chairman denouncing the Washington politicians for hanging corporate linen out the window.

The first and prevailing question was, "Where are the dividends?"

Lockheed issued its last payout in 1968 as its debt problem turned too severe to justify sugaring its stockholders.

Luckily the management had the proxies from absentee shareholders to overcome the resentment of those taking in the action.

The proxies approved converting $540 million of the debt owing to 24 banks from revolving 90-day notes into a term loan coming due in 1981, and substituting preferred stock for another $50 million of the total obligation. The latter automatically puts the banks into partnership with Lockheed.

Robert Haack, the board chairman, even found a happy theme upon which to close the meeting. The company has just signed very substantial contracts with Saudi Arabia for air traffic control systems and with Canada for anti-submarine airplanes.

"Notwithstanding the pillorying we have been subjected to in the past few years, somebody out there must still like us," he editorialized.

This didn't smooth many ruffled feathers seated before him, but, hopefully, better days are around that corner for them.

OREGON RESIDENT PRAISES BOTTLE BILL

Editor,
On Nov. 2, Michigan citizens have an opportunity to pass a bottle bill. As a citizen of Oregon, I know that Michigan residents would find such a bill very much to their liking. Our experience has been a very positive one; few not connected with the beverage industry have an unkind word for it. Even those connected with marketing of beverages have adjusted well, and despite initial propaganda against the bill, once mechanisms of handling were effected, bottlers, distributors, and grocers have all found very satisfactory methods of dealing with the return of empties. Contrary to some reports, sales have increased.

While teaching in central Oregon, I conducted roadside cleanups and beverage container littering surveys with students from April 1970 to February 1974. Our experience in Crook county, based on 116 miles of rural roads, indicated that beverage container littering rates dropped from 204 per mile per year before the bottle bill took effect in October 1972 to 59 after implementation of the bill, a reduction of 71 percent.

On a summer vacation trip this year our pleasant memories of Michigan are jolted by recalling a beautiful camping spot in Alger County where a large fallout of trash surrounded a litter barrel full of beverage containers. In a Gogebic county community we were astounded by the approximately 1100 pop and beer cans littering the edges of a softball field. This no longer happens in Oregon.

Oregon's message to Michigan: the bottle bill works!

CLAIMS VETERANS ARE SHORTCHANGED

Editor,
It was with interest and appreciation I read the letter of Charles C. Bishop in the issue of September 18th with reference to the practice of cutting the pensions of Veterans of World War I each time the rates of Social Security payments are increased and I find only one error in it. Mr. Bishop would appear to be just a wee bit behind the times as the Veterans Administration recently stated the average age of these men is 81 years and six months instead of the 80 years he claimed for them.

I find in my conversations with those who are not W.W. I pensioners there is a general lack of information of how the pension system works as it applies to the W.W. I veteran. And as it is the only pension law ever written that has these peculiar restrictions in it I believe it worthwhile to illustrate the method whereby a pension may be cut and eventually lost, thus causing the veteran to go on welfare rather than rewarding him for service rendered.

Supposing a veteran has a total income of $1,800 annually of which $500 may be interest on investments or labor or whatever, the balance being social security, of which the government pays no part as it comes from a special tax collected from the workers and their employers for this specific purpose. With his $1,800 annual income he is entitled to a pension of $97 per month of $1,164 annually, giving a total of $2,964 per year on which to exist. (In luxury?). Now the social security is increased by (maybe) seven per cent to $1,391. He still has his personal income of $500 or a total income of $1,891 and his pension would be decreased by $6.30 per month to $90.70 of $1,088.40 per year. He now has an income of $500 personal, $1,391 S.S. and $1,088.40 pension, a total of $2,979.40. So his gain in income amounts to $15.40 for the year while the non-pensioner received seven per cent on his $1,300 of $91.00 for the year.

Or let us assume the veteran has no personal income and depends, many do, on S.S. His income is $1,300 and his pension, because of the peculiar sliding scale that is used, is $128

A Big Payoff At The Polls?

With the Carter Campaign — Indications that 70 million eligible Americans will not vote this November are particularly troubling to Democratic politicians.

The party's people depend on mob action. Republicans benefit from rain, apathy and other natural disasters on ballot day, hence the Democratic philosophy and so its survival are linked to the quantity rather than quality of the vote.

So Frantic are the Democrats actually, that a few of them have even been talking of paying people to vote in future elections. Not so silly. In fact, the idea has been circulating for years, ironically by a Republican — businessman Frank Perry, of Palm Beach, Fla. Perry is the creator of the National Dividend Foundation in Washington, which has as its goal cash rewards (about $750) to Americans who exercise their franchise. It's a delicious idea. Perry for president?

Actually, NDF's proposal is not merely a tool to increase voter turnout. That happy occasion would be a tangential benefit. Primarily, Perry and his foundation are interested in reducing government influence over tax funds, thus over people's lives. Here's how it works:

Approximately $40 billion in corporate taxes are collected on an annual basis. This goes into a general fund which is more or less returned to the people, with the government bureaucracy as the middle man. Perry would divide these funds by the number of voters, and give the result to them directly without further government interference.

Perry would have a transition period of five years. The first year voters would get 20 per cent of the corporate taxes, or about $200 a piece. By 1981 the voters would get the whole pie, or $750 each. A family of two voters would get $1,500. The money would be provided on a quarterly basis so that the kickbacks would not overheat the economy.

And what of the depleted general tax funds? Would the government, bless it, go broke? Perry's economists insist not. They say that the growth of the economy adjusted to inflation would provide tax revenues equal to or surpassing the diverted corporate taxes. It would mean the government could not count on both the corporate tax and the growth revenue, but this is part of Perry's scheme. He feels government spending must stabilize. His plan would see to it.

He says his plan would also help government in other ways. Take the welfare mess as an example. The NDF believes that paying voters $750 a piece would provide income enough to lift 56 per cent of welfare recipients from the dole. That's seven to eight million fewer people to worry about, and $5-6 billion in assistance money saved. I.e., welfare would be reduced to a manageable size and, if the gods were gracious, some of the two million administrators would no longer be needed.

Frank Perry has even devised a way to assure that no bureaucracy would be needed to oversee voter dividends. The IRS would collect the corporate taxes as usual. Then send out checks to each of the 50 states. The states in turn would set up private banking systems to distribute the goodies. Neat. Complete. Admirable. On paper, anyway.

Would it work? Many economists believe it is sound. Still Perry's prodigious proposal remains on the fringes of acceptability. Pay voters? What rot. Then again, suppose we gave an election sometime and NOBODY came?

Moral Standards In High Office

WASHINGTON — Just how candid should a president or presidential candidate be about his private life?

Jimmy Carter pushed the privacy boundaries further than ever before the other day when he discussed extramarital sex and confessed to mentally lusting after women other than his wife.

But in the past few years the revolution in sexual attitudes and other moral standards has engulfed national politicians as well as the rest of the country.

As short a time as 10 years ago, President Lyndon Johnson shocked some reporters by conducting a tour of his private bedroom, where his silk pajamas were visibly laid out upon the bed.

Since then, divorce among senators, governors and members of presidential tickets and their wives has become so commonplace as to be unworthy of notice. Betty Ford is asked whether she will sleep in the same bedroom as her husband and makes it clear sex is very important in their lives together.

Reliable accounts tell us that the late Presidents Franklin Roosevelt and John Kennedy had affairs in the White House, of which their wives appeared to have knowledge.

The possibility that Susan Ford might want an affair has been debated at length, with nearly everybody in her family entering a comment.

What's going on here? And is it a good thing?

On the one hand, it is a relief to drop the pretense that political families are paragons of old-fashioned virtue, since in our hearts we knew all along they were just ordinary people who happened to go into the political business instead of plumbing. On the other hand, it is disturbing to face the reality that the people who govern us and decide how many taxes we pay and which wars we fight are as fallible in their private lives as we are.

There's an old line about no man being a hero to his valet, the idea of being that one can't admire someone who has been observed in his underwear. A certain quality of dignity, not to say mystery, has been destroyed.

Dignity, after all, is not the most important qualification for the presidency. Nixon, with all his hypocrisy and White House church services, was pretty dignified — and look what it got us.

Carter talked to Playboy magazine because he wanted to demonstrate that his own puritan religious beliefs didn't make him intolerant or non-understanding or those millions who read such magazines or who watch TV's popular "All in the Family," in which Archie Bunker flirt seriously with another woman and hurts his wife's feelings. Carter used a couple of blunt phrases that have apparently shocked some ministers but wouldn't even cause a movie to lose its okay-for-kiddies rating.

It might help to put all this in perspective by contrasting it with President Ford's silence in the face of reports that he accepted free vacations from U.S. Steel while a congressman, an act of dubious morality, to say nothing of conflict of interest. The White House acted as though his conduct was so insignificant as to be unworthy of comment. That was the dignified approach.

But would you rather have a president who explains too much about his private life or one who explains too little?

Expanded SJ Water Plant Goes On Display Sunday

By STEVE SAGER
Staff Writer

St. Joseph city and suburban residents who want to see where one of their life-sustaining ingredients comes from are invited to an open house Sunday at the city's water plant.

The open house is for the recently completed $3.7 million addition to the plant. Tours will be held from 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The plant is at the south end of Lions Park drive.

The addition is the second to the original water plant which was built in the early 1930s, according to Don Bedford, plant superintendent. The first expansion was in 1957.

Water plant officials said any interested person is invited Sunday, but the tour should be of particular interest to those who obtain their water from the plant.

Ed Barrick, maintenance

foreman at the plant, said construction of the recent addition began March 11, 1974. Bedford said the new addition was built because "We reached the point where we were exceeding rated capacity during summer months and the state department of health strongly urged consideration of expansion."

Bedford said prior to the new addition the water plant had a capacity of 8 million gallons per day. The capacity is now 16 million gallons per day.

Besides city customers, water also is pumped to Stevensville, Shoreham, Lincoln township and St. Joseph township.

City Clerk Patrick Phelan said the new addition was financed from the sale of $4.7 million in revenue bonds to be amortized from sale of water.

He added $640,000 has been earmarked for new replacement equipment for the older parts of the plant.

Like the city's fire and police departments, there is someone at the water plant 24 hours a day, every day of the year. There are seven full-time employees.

Bedford, 50, was hired as superintendent at the water plant in May of 1965. Prior to coming to St. Joseph, he was the plant operator and then assistant superintendent at the water plant at Harbor Beach, Mich. He holds a F-1 certificate, the highest certificate issued in Michigan for water plant operators.

He is married and resides at 2824 Morton avenue, St. Joseph. He and his wife, Marjorie, have one grown daughter, Diane.

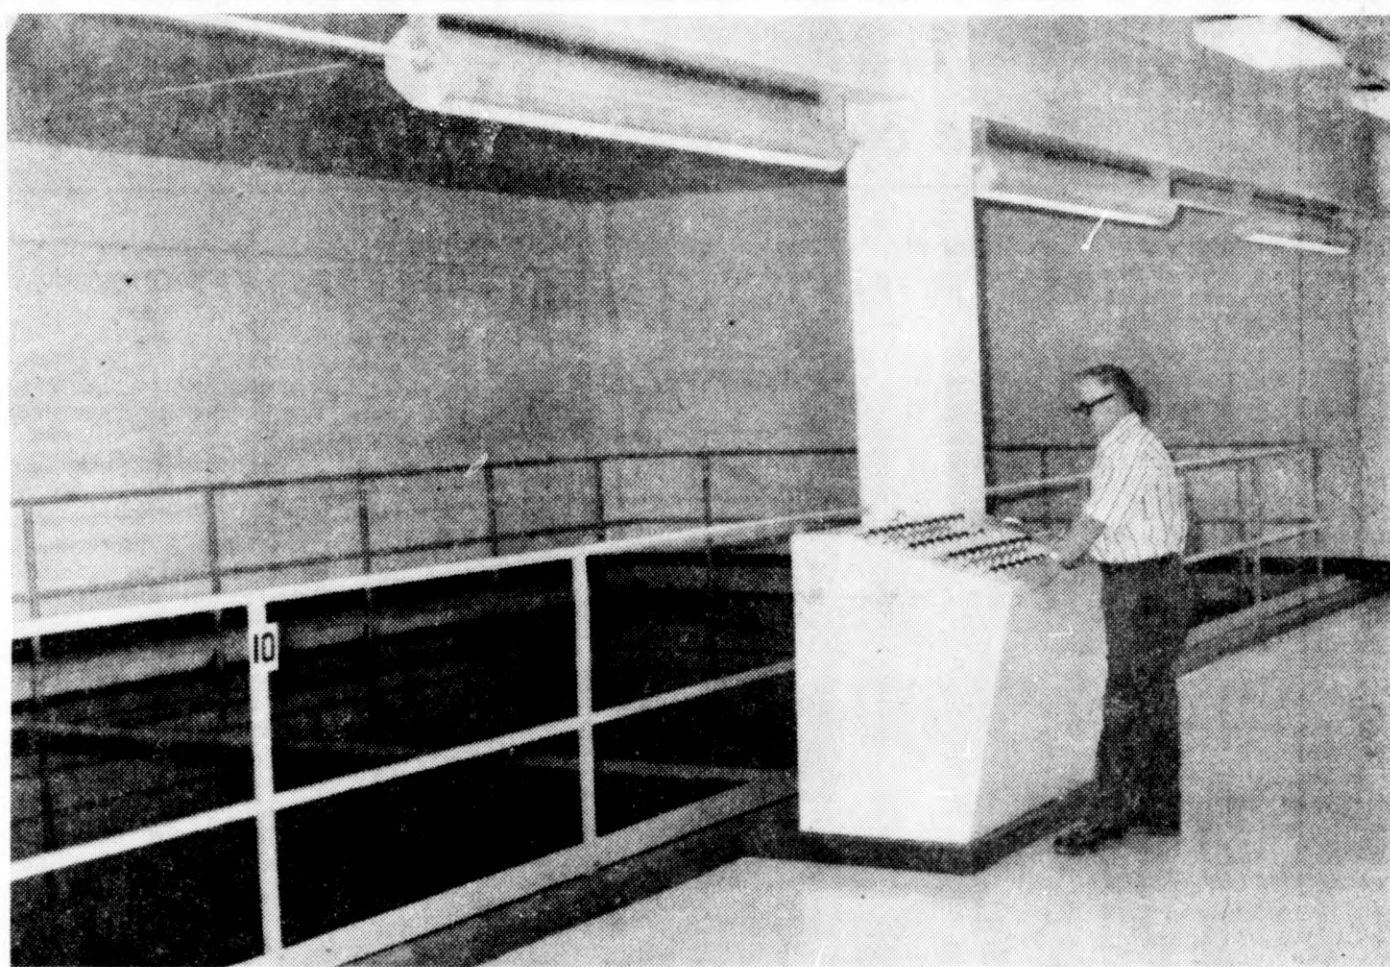

He explained the operation of the St. Joseph water plant as follows:

Water from Lake Michigan is brought in through an intake pipe that extends 1,500 feet offshore. The water is pumped into three clarifiers to settle as much sand and other solids as possible.

The water then goes to 12 sand filters where the rest of the dirt is removed. From the filters the water goes to two underground storage reservoirs that have a total capacity of 2.75 million gallons.

From the reservoirs the water is pumped into the distribution system and taken to the customers.

Bedford said four chemicals are added to the water at the plant. He said the chemicals are for disinfection, treatment and quality control of the water among other things. He noted the water is considered "moderate hard" with an average of 8.5 grains

United Way Is Near 50% At Drive's First Report

Blossomland United Way volunteers registered 48.1 per cent of the 1976 goal Thursday for a record number of dollars pledged before a first report. Dr. Walter Browe, general campaign chairman, told his St. Joseph Elks Club luncheon audience that $372,560 had been subscribed toward the $775,000 community goal.

Browe recalled that the first report lunch of the 1975 campaign, at which 48.2 per cent of goal was reported, was held one week later in the month. All factors point to a successful campaign in 1976, Browe said, and noted if his biennial campaign team "keeps plugging away — there's no way we can lose."

Several employee campaigns have listed strong percentage increases over 1975 giving, Browe said. He stated all media employees at radio station WSJM-WIRX participated in support of 37 United Way service agencies, and registered an 84.2 per cent gain over last year. Employees in the Eau Claire public schools, whose campaign is incomplete, have so far boosted their giving by 50.6 per cent.

The staff at Appliance Buyers Credit Corporation continued to out-distance other BUW area employee groups in per capita giving with a $121.56 average per person sent into the report lunch. Whirlpool Corporation Research and Engineering employees were a close second with $95 per person for a 13.2 per cent increase.

Other significant increases were listed by Berrien Springs schools, 14.9 per cent; Michigan Standard Alloys, 8.8 per cent; Trinity Lutheran School, 17.2 per cent; Lake Michigan college, 10.6 per cent; Whirlpool Laundry group, 7.6 per cent, and Lakeshore Schools, 5.7 per cent.

Leading the eight soliciting units with 70 per cent achievement toward goal is the special gifts division, led by Mrs. Jeanne Dwan. Major firms A, under the direction of Dan Griswold, has reached 61.4 per cent of goal and is the group which must raise the greatest amount.

Other chairmen and their division standings are: Ray Radde, public, 29.7 per cent; Art Clark, major firms B, 28 per cent; Lou Snyder, metro B, 27.3 per cent; Jeff Butzbach, professional, 26.6 per cent; Larry Holben, industry - commerce - labor - construction, 13.9 per cent; and Harry Burleson, metro A, 13.9 per cent.

Under a new format, the lunch program concluded in an hour, and Browe hopes this will lure more volunteers to the coming report rallies on Oct. 14 and 21. All rallies will be held in the St. Joseph Elks club at noon.

AT THE CONTROLS: Don Bedford, superintendent at St. Joseph water plant, points to main control panel that indicates water levels, pressures and distribution throughout entire plant.

NEW LABORATORY: Monitoring of treatment process and testing of water quality is conducted in new laboratory at St. Joseph water plant to assure delivery of potable water to customers.

BUW SETS RECORD: A first report dollar-pledged record was set Thursday by Blossomland United Way volunteers when $372,560 was posted against the $775,000 goal. Representing employee campaigns with high achievement are, from left, Warren Hahn, Appliance Buyers Credit Corporation; Dr. Walter Browe, general campaign chairman; Pat Moody and Marilyn McKinley, radio station WSJM-WIRX. ABCC employees set record $121.56 per employee giving, while WSJM employees increased BUW support by 84.2 per cent.

Bridge Marathon

MARIAN GUILD TOURNEY: Play in the annual Marian Guild Bridge Marathon will begin in November with participants playing monthly for five months. Entrance fee is $10 and groups are being formed for the third Wednesday of each month, the third Thursday evenings and days. Final play and the awards tea will be held in April at the St. Joseph Elks Lodge. Proceeds will be used for a college scholarship to present to a Catholic senior girl in an area public or parochial high school. Planning the tournament are, from left, Mrs. Patrick (Judy) Kinney, chairman; Miss Helen Oehlhofer, publicity, and Mrs. Gale (Irene) Cutler, prizes. Assisting them will be Mrs. Ronald (Joy) Willging, co-chairman; Mrs. Lou (Pat) Schroeder, tea, and Mrs. John (Magdalenn) Kinney, scorekeeper. (Staff photo)

Around the clock with WOMEN

Finds Workshops Valuable

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Cheating? Certainly not, said Mary Higgins Clark.

She'd been saying how valuable all the writing courses were she'd taken at New York University, Columbia, etc.

"I was in a writer's workshop for years when I was selling so much fiction to magazines," she said. "Six of us formed our own workshop from a class at NYU, and we'd meet once a week and two of us would read for criticism."

In fact, she did a lot of reading from "Where Are the Children?" in another workshop, "and it was marvelous. They'd say, you're doing well with so and so's character, or, no, you can't do that."

"No, it's not cheating. You're writing for a specific audience instead of in a void."

It's just that the class isn't sharing in the profits from "Where Are the Children?" Clark's first and bestselling novel.

And the book has been like a box of candy, says the blue-eyed redhead who has been widowed since 1964.

"First, Simon & Schuster bought it and as of December '75, it sold 30,000 copies at $7.95 in hardcover, and that's not counting the Doubleday Book Club and the Detective Book Club."

Club. Not to mention Reader's Digest which condensed it and which, she says, may just have published it in every language.

"And two years ago I was sitting on the terrace with my five children — two were in law school, two in college and one in private school — and I said, we're on the good ship Titanic. How am I going to pay for all your tuition? And just then I got a call from my agent saying the paperback rights had been sold to Dell for a six-figure sum. My daughters disappeared arm in arm into Saks and weren't seen for three days."

Then Ray Stark, the producer, bought the film rights. "I got a generous advance and I have a percentage of the movie which they'll start in November, but I can't give actual figures because they get furious." She does concede there are more than six involved.

Well, if her workshop colleagues aren't tasting these heady fruits, they also didn't put in the hours between five and seven every morning for three years to write the suspense book. And then follow that with a full day in the small Madison Avenue offices where Clark and her partner create syndicated radio shows.

No one forced her to do it, though. "When you're a writer, you have to write. Radio writing simply isn't the same as fiction."

And flying with Pan Am to Africa and India wasn't much of a substitute, either, although the idea appealed to her enormously in 1949.

"I was born and reared in New York and had never been out of the area. I was working as a secretary for Remington Rand and was starting to write copy for them — I'd taken advertising and marketing courses at night at the Advertising Club — when I met a stewardess through a friend."

They were sitting in a bar at the Martha Washington Hotel when the stewardess sauntered in, tossed off her hat and sighed. "It was beastly hot in Calcutta."

"That was it for me," she says, laughing. "I flew for Pan Am for a year." Still, she really did want to write and, besides, Warren Clark had proposed the night she quit her secretarial job. So she threw in her wings, married the Capitol Airlines executive, and "signed up for my first fiction writing course at NYU."

"Use your background as a stewardess," the professor told her, and she wrote "Stowaway," a suspense story which she sold to a Catholic magazine two years later for $300 or $400.

Soon, she was writing young family fiction "because I had five small children," and McCall's, Redbook and the Saturday Evening Post among others were publishing it.

Then, in 1964, her husband died of a heart attack and, because her writing only grossed $50 that year, she took a job writing radio shows, eventually starting her own company.

Probably there'll never come a time when she isn't going to school for one thing or another, but no more writing courses, she says.

These nights, she's attending Fordham University to earn a bachelor's degree in philosophy and she wants to study the classics ("I've only read them"), and then there's James Joyce ...

The college degree was first on the list she compiled two years ago of all the things she hadn't done but wished she had. "Since I don't believe in reincarnation, I said, why not try them?"

There were tennis and skiing lessons, too, and, soon, the purchase of a piano. "I took lessons when I was a kid and did nothing with it."

Oh, yes, speaking of children, "Where Are the Children?" concerns kidnapping and, in a sense, people's responsibility to each other. "The normal crime doesn't involve our emotions but kidnapping strikes terror into us. Everyone becomes a vigilante."

Perhaps if folks in that Cape Cod town had paid stricter attention, it wouldn't have happened. After all, Nancy only left the children for 10 minutes ...

TRY BANGS

The Richard Thomas Theatre Ballet created an unique spectrum of moods and movements for the opening concert of the season of Community Concerts Association of Southwest Michigan Wednesday night.

Performing in Lakeshore high school auditorium, the company displayed movements of ballet from the classical to the modern, and displayed the moods of ballet from the happy to the sad and from the serious to the fun.

Members of the company wove and interwove brilliant techniques with magnificent interpretation until the composite picture was complete.

Beginning with one of the most famous divertissements in the history of the dance, "Le Pas De Quatre," first performed in London in 1845, the dancers recreated that moment when the world's four greatest ballerinas danced together on the same stage.

Christina Foisie portrayed Marie Taglioni, Ann Arnoult portrayed Carlotta Grisi, Bronwyn Thomas portrayed Fanny Cerito and Alice Avolio portrayed Lucille Grahn.

Each danced a virtuoso variation performing effortlessly and dazzling the audience in the final display of virtuosity.

Marissa Benetsky and Sean Lavery danced with airy vibrancy the famous "Le Corsaire Pas De Deux."

In an abrupt change of pace, Millard Hurley, Ann Arnoult and Michael Puleo provided a glimpse of modern interpretive dance with flawless techniques against a changing color backdrop.

Audience favorites throughout the evening were Bronwyn Thomas and Manuel Gomez who first showed the concertgoers how they confidently complemented each other in Stravinsky's "Caprice." Joining the couple in the work were Marissa Benetsky and Michael DeLorenzo who displayed the conglorated vigor of shining youth.

One of the most beautiful works on the program was the "Canciones Amatorias." Featuring all of the dancers, it was graceful and pleasing and was highlighted by the solos of Marissa Benetsky and Millard Hurley and also featured the popular Thomas-Gomez duo.

Brilliant performances were given by Alice Avolio, Sean Lavery, Michael DeLorenzo and Michael Puleo in the happy and fun, "Why Not" which featured soft shoe dancing to boogie and ragtime piano music. Lavery was the favorite with his tremendous power and technique.

The highlight of the evening for the audience was the performances of Bronwyn Thomas and Manuel Gomez in the "Black Swan Pas De Deux" from "Swan Lake."

The dancers were full of grace, pride and arrogance and dazzled the audience with their circling of the stage and finally in the relentless whipping fouettes.

The remaining members of the company performed in exceptional style the "Grand Finale." The company was created for cities where technical requirements prohibit visits by the biggest American ballet companies, and it is to Richard Thomas' credit, that the company achieved the goal of magnitude in an illusion.

Hamill Hairdo

NEW YORK — When ice skating champion Dorothy Hamill achieved instant fame on TV, women from coast to coast rushed out to copy her wedge-shaped hairdo. But many now wonder about the best way to care for it.

The October issue of "Seventeen" reveals Dorothy's method — which is quite simple. Her hair is dry, so she washes and conditions it every three days. While blow-drying, she lifts her hair in back for bounce.

Another of Miss Hamill's beauty secrets: she drinks a quart of mineral water a day. "It has a lot of iron in it and it's supposed to be good for your skin," she says.

The magazine's special beauty issue also gives directions for a special scalp sauna that benefits all types of hair: Massage deep-conditioning lotion into scalp for five minutes. Wrap hair in a thin towel; blow for 10 minutes with drier set on medium to activate conditioner. Shampoo well, then blow dry.

As to complexion, all bloom when fried foods are eliminated from the diet. Carbonated drinks should be forsaken too (at least for a while), in favor of plain water and pure fruit juices.

Dry skins need moisturizer. Oily skins like moderate sunshine (or a few sessions with a sunlamp) to help clear up blemishes.

Decoupage Instructions

The next time you're caught in the midst of one of those long and boring weekends, the National Paint and Coatings association suggests you try your hand at decoupageing.

Decoupageing is a fun way to help a dreary weekend pass by. To decoupage, you apply paper or fabric designs to any type of surface and then coat them with varnish or a "decoupage finish."

Combine a little originality and ingenuity, and add to this a bit of imagination to discover the artist within you!

For a starter, dress up an old piece of furniture with paint and decoupage. An old, rejected rocker, a dresser, drawer or chair are all fine items to work on.

Clean with water and household detergent the surface to be covered. Rinse thoroughly. Apply a latex or alkyd base coat of paint on the furniture. After this coat dries completely, brush a thin coat of glue on the back of the designs and position them in place on the furniture.

Use a damp sponge to press out air bubbles and to soak up the excess glue around the edges. Allow the glue to dry.

Next, use a good quality brush and apply as many coats of the varnish or "decoupage finish" as the directions state; brushing from the center outward. This procedure will eliminate build-ups around the edges.

The product directions may call for sanding between coats. Sand the surface lightly in a motion parallel to the wood and grain with wet or dry sandpaper dipped in water. Wipe away sanded particles with a tack cloth. Continue to add coats of decoupage finish, sanding when necessary, until the desired effect is achieved.

The Rose - - -
Public's Choice

SOUTHFIELD — The rose is the overwhelming choice of the American people as the official flower of the United States, according to the results of a nationwide poll announced here.

Hubert J. Beudert, executive vice president of Florists' Transworld Delivery (FTD) the inter-city floral delivery cooperative which conducted the poll in July, said the rose captured 29.9 per cent of the vote, more than three times the 9.2 per cent total of the runner-up carnation.

The daisy was third, Beudert reported, with 8.7 per cent, followed by dogwood with 5.6 per cent and the apple blossom with 4.5 per cent.

The United States is one of the few countries in the world without an official national flower, although there has been repeated efforts to name one throughout the nation's 200 year history.

Congress must pass a law or resolution to designate an official flower and some senators and congressmen most recently put forth the rose, daisy and apple blossom, which finished in the top five in the FTD poll, along with the marigold, which finished 10th with 2.4 per cent of the vote.

Beudert said FTD would formally present the results of its poll to the new Congress which takes office in 1977 and request that it act "on the people's choice."

"After all," he said, "we have a national bird — the bald eagle — and every state has an official flower and some also honor animals, birds and even fish."

"It's high time the country had a national flower and what better choice than one that's been picked by the people themselves."

Ballots for the FTD flower election were available at its 14,000 member shops in the United States. There were 28 floral "candidates" listed along with space for a write-in. At the end of July, FTD florists sent the ballots to the organization's headquarters in Southfield, where they were counted under the supervision of Coopers & Lybrand, certified public accountants.

The top write-in was the gardenia, which attracted .559 per cent of the total vote of 421,266. The second most popular write-in was marijuana with .310 per cent of the vote.

The dandelion received .250 per cent of the votes and the lowest number of ballots — 106 — was cast for the cactus.

The official results, in order of choice, include:

Rose, carnation, daisy, dogwood, apple blossom, lilac, black-eyed-susan, orchid, pansy, marigold, chrysanthemum, azalea, mountain laurel, tulip, and daffodil.

Also rhododendron, lily, magnolia, geranium, gladiolus, snapdragon, corn tassel, camellia, peony, petunia, zinnia, begonia, dahlia, gardenia and marijuana.

And violet, dandelion, poppy, iris, sunflower, cherry blossom, sweet pea, blue bonnet, aster, bird of paradise, morning glory, forget-me-not, baby's breath, glloxinia, columbine and cactus.

It is dedicated to fostering greater international understanding by making it possible for young people to have an overseas family living experience.

Since its inception in 1951, the program has exchanged more than 50,000 United States and foreign students in 50 countries world wide.

Through the exchange program, host families will have the opportunity to open their homes for six months to teenagers from Brazil, Chile, Paraguay, Colombia, Argentina and Uruguay.

Students are between the ages of 15 and 18 and are expected to be conversant in English, to be in good health, and to have demonstrated good academic achievement. American host families provide room and board. Students provide their own spending money and health insurance.

"Invariably, the students are curious, flexible and eager to learn about their new country and family," Pica said. Their interests range from sports activities such as soccer, tennis, swimming and sailboat racing to Scouting, folk dancing and handicrafts.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Dad Is Super-Critical

Dear Ann Landers: Why do mediocre hockey players, when they become fathers, expect their sons to be Bobby Orr reincarnated?

They go to every game the kid plays in and they find fault with every move. "Why didn't you carry the puck? Why didn't you pass the puck? Why didn't you hit the man? Why are you flinging yourself at the players' skates?" The boy ends up feeling like a failure.

If the child had equal rights, he could retaliate with such questions as, "Why aren't you president of your company? Why don't you earn more money? Why do you let younger men pass you on the ladder of success?"

But no, the kid takes the criticism and keeps his mouth shut. He has too much decency to humiliate his dad, even though his dad humiliates him. Will you comment please? — Mother Of A Beat-Down Boy

Dear Mother: You have plenty to be concerned about. Hockey is only one of the games being played in your family. The boy is the victim of a father who feels he didn't make the grade himself so he is trying for a second shot through his son.

Family counseling would be very useful. If your husband won't go, take the boy. He needs to learn how to build defenses against a super-critical, domineering father.

Help A friend

Dear Ann Landers: I attended a dance last weekend where there were 12- and 13-year-old girls who were trying to look older. It was really pretty sad.

One girl (she looked like she was about 11) had stuffed toilet paper in her halter to make herself look like she had a bust. When I saw her dancing with an older guy, the toilet paper had moved around a lot and one breast was twice as big as the other. On the smaller side, the toilet paper was sticking out under her arm — about four squares of it. I didn't know whether to say anything to her or not so I just kept quiet. What would you have done? — Embarrassed Silence

Dear E.S.: I would have gotten the girl off to the side and tipped her off. Wouldn't YOU appreciate being told, under similar circumstances? Do unto others, dear.

Waited Too Long

Dear Ann Landers: I have nothing but praise for the woman who wrote to say she was leaving a "non-husband" who was also a "non-father" in spite of what her family and friends had to say.

Camp Needed For Klutzes

There are camps for overweight, mothers of twins, tennis losers and other minority groups. So how come no one has gotten together a camp for klutzes?

These poor people stumble around through life 52 weeks out of every year rubbing stains off their sweaters and picking toilet tissue off their heels. They can't help it. They're not your usual all-together people.

They're your screw-ups who come out of a pay toilet and realize they've left their purse on the back of the commode.

They put the wrong date on the last check in their checkbook with eight people standing behind them in the checkout line.

They lock all the doors in their car and leave the top down.

They can break a tooth while eating a marshmallow.

I'd like to see a camp where for an entire week, a klutz could do no wrong. Everything would be geared to insure him a safe, fun-filled time. If someone sent him for a left-handed tire pump, there would be one there marked "left-handed tire pump." He could use a ballpoint pen without splattering ink. He could open up a can of carbonated pop without it spraying the ceiling. There would be a special nozzle in the bathtub where, no matter what position it was in, the water wouldn't come out of the shower and drench him.

In a way I identify with klutzes. It's not that I fall a lot or anything, but I'm impetuous. A few years ago, I saw Tom Jones perform and women got so crazy some of them threw their hotel keys at him onstage. I got caught up in the frenzy and threw him my key. Unfortunately, it was the only key to our freezer.

There's something desperate about a klutz. This whole idea in fact came from a reader in Trenton, N.J., who begged me to do something. She wrote, "It takes a lot of understanding and love to deal with a klutz. A person can have an IQ of 150 and still have the magnetic catch on the kitchen cabinet attract her ankle chain. . . or use her son's hair dryer and be sucked right off the floor. I'm the one with a normal size nose who, while washing her hair, got it caught in the overflow opening."

She vowed she had such respect for me, she'd do anything I suggested. She spelled my first name with an I.

FOR SATURDAY, OCT. 2, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Friends will be involved in many facets of your activities today. In two situations, however, they'll annoy you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) It'll take an adverse condition to spark your best efforts today. You'll rise to the occasion. Your pride will be at stake.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Rather than let any more time elapse, have a face-to-face meeting with one you've had a misunderstanding with. It can now be patched up.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) When conducting business today don't let your heart rule your head. Results you hope for will only be realized through practical negotiations.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You have the ability to roll with the punches today. Don't view minor setbacks as major defeats.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your special talents and expertise have high market value. Keep this in mind if someone is bargaining for your services.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Try to do things today that are inexpensive. Entertainment with a large price tag will cause you remorse later, when you get the tab.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you're self-serving today the results won't amount to much. Put the concerns of others above yours. All will benefit.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Do more listening than talking today if you're with persons you can learn from. Something valuable will be disclosed.

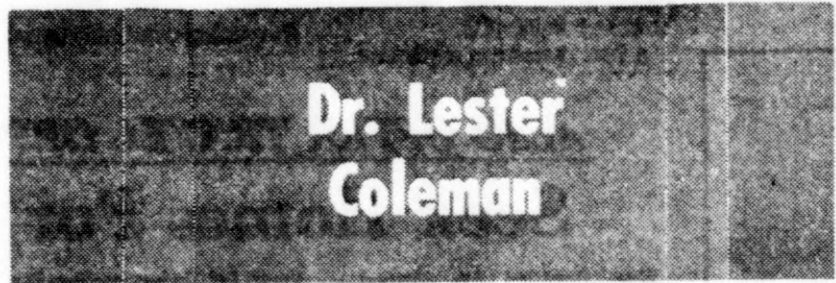

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your material aspects look very encouraging today, provided you don't leave things to chance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) This should be a day much to your liking, yet you must guard against behaving erratically. Let cool reason overrule impulse.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't feel you must immediately return favors that others do for you today. You'll have time to even the score later.

Bunk beds in children's rooms are charming to look at, but before you buy them, consider this study by the United States Consumer Products Safety Commission.

Taking their statistics from 119 hospital emergency rooms, the Commission estimates "the last year's number of injuries involving bunk beds as 13,500. About 35 per cent of these involved lacerations, mostly on the head and face."

Contusions, abrasions, sprains, concussions and fractures are also included in these statistics.

The Commission further said, "Falls (rolling out while asleep in the absence of a guard rail or because it gave way, tumbling while playing, or slipping while climbing the ladder or bed frame) accounted for many of the injuries. But some of the mishaps involved impact with parts of the bed, or even with partially or totally unassembled bunks."

If your children's room has bunk beds, or if you're planning to buy them, be sure to provide all the safety features necessary to reduce the possibility of accidents. That would include a secure guard rail, bedroom slippers that are not "slippery" and a "no-no" to vigorous horseplay.

Many people are embarrassed about revealing the fatigue they suffer after a normal day's activity. The family may say that "it's all psychological" and that doesn't help much.

Fatigue is a symptom that the body is crying out for a little more rest and time to re-build its resources. It is true that emotional stress and psychological factors can produce the symptom of fatigue without the expenditure of physical energy.

The energy threshold varies with different people even at different times of the day and under a variety of circumstances. Some people seem to have boundless energy while others can barely drag their feet under stressful situations.

All of us have noticed the tremendous exhaustion that follows even a simple cold. For days afterwards, getting up in the morning and having breakfast becomes a big chore.

We all know how a poor night's sleep can deplete one's energy the next day. The "battery" must be recharged if the body is to function well.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH. Children have a right to be afraid in a new doctor's office. Impatience with them at this time will exaggerate their fears and make future visits more difficult.

Campaign Finance Bill Goes To House

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A bill to regulate campaign financing is in House hands after being passed by the Senate over Republican objections and threat of a gubernatorial veto.

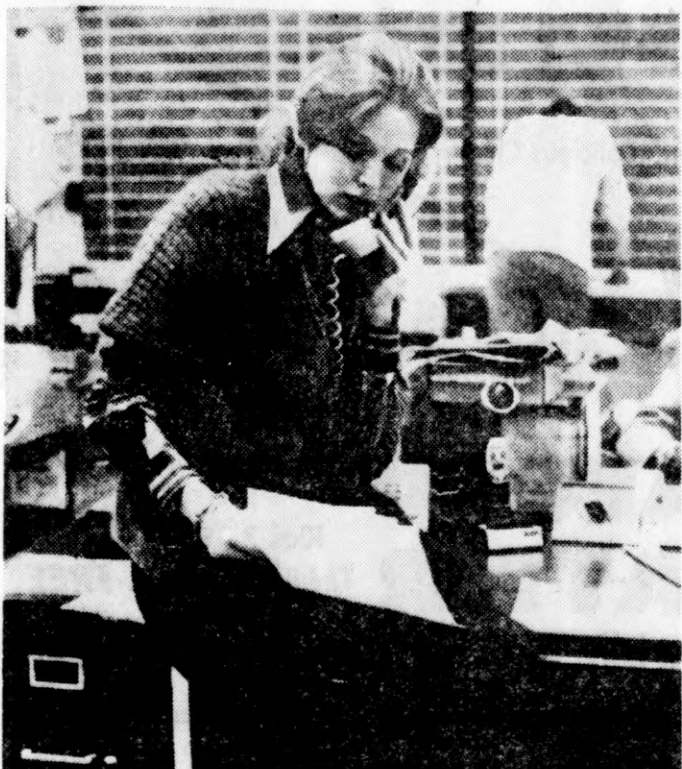

The Senate voted 23-9 along straight party lines Thursday to pass the measure, which requires reporting of large donations and limits campaign contributions.

Republicans had tried unsuccessfully to amend the Democrat-written bill, charging it is filled with loopholes and biased in favor of labor unions. Further GOP amendment efforts are expected in the House.

Unless the measure is changed to meet Republican objections, Gov. William Milliken has vowed to veto it and a companion measure to permit public funding of gubernatorial campaigns.

Both bills are sections of a sweeping 1975 political reform law which the Supreme Court ruled unconstitutional because it included too many issues in one measure.

The main provisions of the bill are:
—Candidates and committees must record all contributions over $20.
—They must make public the name and address of all contributors who give more than $100, as well as the occupations of those giving $200 or more. Expenditures also must be listed and those over $100 itemized.
—Reports must be filed before and after each election

QUESTION TIME: Rosalynn Carter, wife of Democratic presidential contender Jimmy Carter, fields questions during Thursday's news conference at the Hillcrest Country club at Mt. Clemens, Mich. She said her husband, Jimmy, talks too much. (AP Wirephoto)

Wife Says Jimmy 'Talks Too Much'

DETROIT (AP) — Rosalynn Carter says her husband, Jimmy, talks too much.

But, she told a Macomb County audience Thursday, "at least people know he's honest and he doesn't mind answering questions."

Mrs. Carter made two stops — one an hour late and the other only minutes long — in the Detroit area Thursday to urge support of her Democratic husband's bid for the presidency.

Besides discussing Carter's vocal tendencies, she criticized President Gerald Ford for "building a wall around himself," and not facing public questions often enough during his tenure in office.

"I think the president of the United States ought to be accessible to the people," she told reporters after addressing a tea sponsored by the Macomb County Federation of Democratic Women in Mount Clemens.

She said her entire family has been available for public scrutiny throughout the campaign, but charged that Ford had appeared only in formal settings.

Carter himself has made similar criticisms of his opponent in the past several days.

Asked to elaborate on her statement that her husband talked too much, Mrs. Carter cited his much-ballyhooed "ethnic purity" remark made early in the primary race.

"Everybody knew what he meant when he said 'ethnic purity,'" she said. "He said people like to live in their own neighborhoods and keep to their own culture and their own language and that the federal government should not force them to break these neighborhoods up."

"But he said 'purity' and they jumped on that word. He probably should have said 'ethnic heritage.'"

The Mount Clemens appearance was cut short before questions could be presented by the audience because Mrs. Carter arrived more than an

Kissinger Told To Be Firm

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — African and other Third World diplomats have counseled U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger to be firm and cautious in negotiations with white leaders of South Africa and Rhodesia.

Commenting on Kissinger's policy address Thursday before the General Assembly, Foreign Minister Frederick R. Wills of Guyana said he sees "potential" in the secretary's shuttle diplomacy to southern Africa.

Nigerian Foreign Minister J.N. Garba said his government has no confidence in any dialogue with Prime Minister John Vorster of South Africa.

Kissinger said in his speech that Namibia appears headed for independence "within a fixed, short time" and that a commitment exists for an immediate black majority government in Rhodesia.

Ford, Carter Turn To Foreign Policy

By DAVE RILEY
Associated Press Writer

Their debate on foreign policy is less than a week away, and Jimmy Carter and President Ford are using different tactics to turn attention toward their stands on world affairs.

Carter, continuing a strategy that has had him moving briskly about the country, was in the Northeast on Thursday, where he attacked Ford's policies in the Middle East.

Meanwhile, Ford continued his strategy of remaining at home in Washington where he was meeting foreign ministers at the White House.

Carter, touring the Northeast, was critical of Ford's reliance on Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and on the tone of U.S. foreign policy under Ford.

In Portland, Maine, he said Ford had abdicated his foreign policy duty to Kissinger and that U.S. policy now "is conducted in secret by one person who is not the president and who has no regard ... for morality."

And he said U.S. foreign policy "in the last few years has been amoral in nature. There's been no commitment to truth. There's been no constant search to correct the depravation of human rights ... there's been no openness because there's a lot to be concealed."

In Boston, Carter rapped the sale of offensive missiles to Saudi Arabia and Ford's approach to the Arab boycott of U.S. firms that do business with Israel. He said if he is president an oil embargo by Saudi Arabia or other oil-producers will bring retaliation in the form of an embargo on sales of all U.S. goods to that country.

In regard to any Arab boycott, he said it is "a disgrace when a foreign country can tell a U.S. company it can't do business with them if they have a Jew on their board of directors. We can't afford any more to yield to that kind of blackmail."

He said Ford "has consistently opposed strong enforcement of the antiboycott laws now on the books, and it is doing everything in its power to keep needed new legislation from being passed."

Earlier, at Buffalo, N.Y., Carter pledged to try to send a delegation to Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos to attempt to account for Americans still listed as missing in action in Southeast Asia.

Mondale was in Pennsylvania on Thursday, suggesting that a Carter administration could save the nation $10 billion by removing "special shelters that unjustifiably protect income from taxation."

He later backed off that figure, saying, "I cannot be specific. I used a very general ballpark figure of $10 billion. It's somewhere in the neighborhood of that. When I used that figure I was not using it as a figure I totaled up."

Mondale did not specify what shelters he was discussing, but in the past he has said they include such things as tax allowances for oil companies and deferrals that postpone taxes on overseas income.

Car Exhaust Bill Faces Filibuster

By BETTY ANNE WILLIAMS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — As the 94th Congress works to wind up its work, the Senate is facing the threat of a filibuster that could kill legislation extending the deadline for auto makers to meet tough exhaust standards.

Sen. Jake Garn's pledge to talk all night and into next week to prevent a vote on the bill could delay final congressional adjournment. Both the House and Senate hoped to conclude business today and adjourn for the year to allow time for some political campaigning.

Garn, a Utah Republican, wants to kill legislation that would give a one-year delay, until the 1979 model year, for auto makers to reduce car emissions of carbon monoxide and hydrocarbons. Prohibitions against "significant deterioration" of air quality in relatively smog-free areas of the country are also included.

Garn claimed the auto industry needs a longer postponement and that the other provision would impede economic growth.

The bill is the product of a House-Senate compromise following two years of congressional hearings. The House may take up the proposal today if it clears the Senate.

The Senate is also to consider a doubling of the unemployment tax on employers and extending jobless benefits to all state and local government workers. The House must also vote on the bill.

The House plans to debate and vote on a grain standards bill designed to halt the abuses of the federal grain inspection program uncovered in recent investigations.

The House may also consider a resolution offered by Rep. Charles Wiggins, R-Calif., seeking the expulsion of Rep. Andrew Hinshaw, R-Calif., because of Hinshaw's bribery conviction.

On Thursday, Congress overrode President Ford's veto of a $56.5-billion appropriations bill and passed an extension of the revenue-sharing program that Ford has promised to sign.

The appropriations money is for the departments of labor and health, education and welfare. Ford had objected because the proposal was $4 billion more than he had requested for the agencies.

The final version, which Congress enacted with the override votes, contains a limitation on the use of federal money for abortions except where the life of the woman is endangered.

The $25.5-billion revenue-sharing compromise would return federal tax money to states, counties and local government units through 1980. Ford had linked passage of this bill with his action on two jobs bills. One would provide $3.7 billion in public works jobs and the other would extend 260,000 public service jobs in state and local governments.

The President announced that he would sign both bills after the revenue-sharing measure passed.

He also said he would accept a second version of legislation authorizing $3.3 billion for construction at military bases and other military facilities. He vetoed an earlier version because it contained provisions that would have delayed for a year any actions to close or realign major military installations.

The bill Ford says he will sign includes a 60-day waiting period for congressional review of proposed base closings.

Auto Talks Still Inching Along

DETROIT (AP) — Contract talks continued to inch along in the 16-day-old Ford Motor Co. strike as union bargainers reported little progress to signal an imminent settlement.

"Things are moving today just like every other day — slow," said Mike Rinaldi, one of the 15 members of the United Auto Workers' negotiations committee.

Meanwhile, 27,000 UAW workers at John Deere & Co. plants in six states hit the bricks at midnight Thursday, following the failure of last minute negotiations at the company's Moline, Ill. headquarters to come up with a new three-year contract.

Hundreds of workers were reported outside the shutdown plants in the Moline area as negotiators lingered at the table past the 11:59 (CDT) deadline in hopes of reaching an agreement. But a labor spokesman at the talks said, "It looks bleak."

Pat Greathouse, UAW vice president for the agricultural implement industry, said earlier Thursday that if nothing happened by midnight, then the strike would be on.

Rey Brune, a company spokesman said after midnight that the talks were still going on and that the company had not been notified officially that the strike was on.

Just as Ford is the union's target for setting the auto industry pattern on new three-year accords covering 700,000 hourly workers, Deere is the pattern target for the 150,000 unionists in the construction and farm implement industry.

Separately, Chrysler Corp. announced Thursday that prices on its 1977 models will be an average $326 or 5.9 per cent higher than comparable 1976 cars. The percentage increase is identical to that previously announced by industry pricing leader General Motors and compares with a $310 or 5.1 per cent hike at Ford.

Some 170,000 Ford workers in 22 states have been off the job since Sept. 15 and all North American vehicle production by the No. 2 automaker is at a standstill.

Young's Kin Hauled Before Grand Jury

DETROIT (AP) — A noted civil rights leader and relative of Detroit's mayor was hauled before a federal grand jury Thursday as the latest witness in a probe of alleged police department involvement in drug trafficking.

Dr. Claud Young, who refused to discuss his three-hour grand jury appearance, had admitted in earlier interviews he is acquainted with Willie Clyde Volsan, who has been mentioned as a federal informant in the drug probe.

Dr. Young, president of the Michigan chapter of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, told reporters earlier that he was "never friendly" with Volsan although he had seen him "on two or three occasions."

U.S. Attorney Philip Van Dam refused to say whether Young was a target of the drug probe.

Volsan was the target of a separate 1974 investigation into alleged drug trafficking in a bar formerly co-owned by Detroit Mayor Coleman Young. Claud Young, the mayor's first cousin, is the latest witness in a wide ranging probe which has reached to the top of the Detroit Police Department.

The mayor fired Chief Philip Tannian on Tuesday for failing to tell him that the drug probe was underway. Tannian knew about the probe months before the mayor did.

Tannian's replacement, William L. Hart, was sworn in as the new police chief Thursday. Hart is the department's first black police chief. Cmdr. James Bannon was named executive deputy chief.

The probe is being conducted by the U.S. Organized Crime Strike Force along with the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration.

Among the targets of the drug probe is the police department's No. 2 man, Frank Blount, who went on indefinite educational leave last week following a Sept. 20 raid on his home by federal agents accompanied by Tannian, who was still police chief at the time.

Rising Dairy, Meat Prices Up September Grocery Bill In State

By PETE YOST
Associated Press Writer

Shoppers at the meat counter and dairy case were greeted by rising prices in September, but the cost of a few household staples, including sugar, declined from August levels, according to the Michigan AP Marketbasket survey.

The total cost of the 15 marketbasket items edged upward eight-tenths of one per cent from $14.79 in August to $14.91 in September. The figure was the fourth-highest ever posted in the monthly survey, which was started in September 1974.

The price of milk stood at an all-time high for the 25-month long survey, 51 cents a quart, up two pennies from August. The increase, however, did not apply to all milk products. The price of butter, for example, showed a five-cent per pound decline in the nine cities surveyed, from $1.26 to $1.21.

The price of peanut butter, however, rose one-cent to a record 71 cents for a 12-ounce jar. One other marketbasket item, paper towels, rose three cents to a record 83 cents for a two-roll package.

The price of sugar hit an all-time low for the marketbasket survey — $1.04 for a five-pound bag, a drop of six cents from August.

The price of one pound of chopped chuck rose six cents from August, to $1.10. Center cut pork chops rose five cents per pound to $1.76.

But increases did not apply to all meat products. The price of all-beef franks edged downward, from $1.27 per pound to $1.25.

Among other marketbasket items, there were increases in eggs, up a penny per dozen; medium eggs to 80 cents; laundry detergent, up four cents to $1.32 for 49 ounces; and chocolate chip cookies, up from 95 cents to 97 cents for a 14½-ounce box.

Unchanged from August levels were frozen orange juice, 30 cents for a six-ounce can; coffee, $2.06 per pound; and tomato sauce, which stayed at its high of 21 cents for eight ounces for the third consecutive month.

Five of the nine marketbasket cities registered increases in their monthly prices: Detroit, Lansing, Marquette, Mount Clemens and Pontiac. The price of the 15 marketbasket items jumped the most in Detroit, from $15.11 in August to $15.52 in September.

Flint, Grand Rapids, Gaylord and St. Joseph posted declines in marketbasket prices overall.

So far this year, the trend of the marketbasket has been up in seven out of nine months.

Here are the statewide August and September averages for the 15 grocery items which comprise the AP Marketbasket survey:

One pound chopped chuck: August $1.04, September $1.10.

One pound center-cut pork chops: $1.71, $1.76.

Six-ounce frozen orange juice: 30 cents, unchanged.

One pound coffee: $2.06, unchanged.

Two rolls paper towels: 80 cents, 83 cents.

One dozen medium eggs: 79 cents, 80 cents.

One pound butter: $1.26, $1.21.

49-oz. laundry detergent: $1.28, $1.32.

HIGH SCHOOL PEAR PICKERS: Joni Van Metre, a junior at Hood River Valley high school, Hood River, Ore., prepares to unload some 60 pounds of pears from picking bag into bin. She and other high school students were released from school to help replace illegal aliens deported earlier in September. Each bin, which measures 4-by-4-by-3 feet, is worth $7 to students. Students are having a hard time filling two bins a day, while some Mexican workers can earn as much as $60 a day "because they know how to pick fruit." Growers insist Mexican pickers — usually in the U.S. illegally — are their only consistently reliable and efficient workers. However, government has put on the pressure, and the roundup of illegal aliens has increased 100 per cent since last year. Growers insist that despite high unemployment in fruit growing areas, they can't find domestic workers who will stick to the job. Unemployed workers can get just as much through governmental welfare programs as they can in the orchard, some growers said.

CAB To Pursue Amendments To The Federal Marketing Order

The Cherry Administrative Board (CAB) is seeking two amendments to the current federal marketing order that would provide representation for the state of Wisconsin and also allow some cherries to be released back to the market from a reserve pool at current established prices rather than at the harvest price.

At their Aug. 31 meeting held at the Detroit Metropolitan airport, board members also decided not to take action on 23 other proposals including ones to permit other processed forms of cherries beside frozen to be included in the reserve pool, to exempt small growers from the order and to incorporate the Western Growing area into the order, according to CAB General Manager Del Rasmussen.

Specifically, the first amendment CAB seeks would provide representation for any state that produces 5 million or more pounds of tart cherries for processing through an at-large delegate. The delegate would only be allowed to vote if another delegate and his alternate were both absent from any meeting. Wisconsin is the only state currently affected under this amendment.

The second amendment provides that cherries which are released back to the market because of a revision of percentages in the reserve pool will be handled as a release rather than as an adjustment. In essence, growers will be paid the established market price rather than the price set at harvest.

Before the amendments are incorporated in the order, the United States Department of Agriculture must decide on specific language of the proposals; formal hearings will then be scheduled and eventually a referendum vote taken. Rasmussen said it is hoped the vote will be taken by spring and take effect with the 1977 crop.

CAB rejected the proposal that would have allowed other processed forms of cherries (especially hot pack) in the reserve pool because they said canned cherries and cherry products deteriorate in quality within 12 months. If other forms were allowed, the pool would be tied to a timetable and it would eventually lose the flexibility it now has, Rasmussen said.

In rejecting the proposal that would have allowed the exemption of small growers from the order, the board said an amendment of this type would have required some type of monitoring system and additional record keeping by processors. The board said because the pool is based on percentage, it is fair to all parties involved.

The proposal to incorporate the Western Growing area was rejected because board members feared if it was brought to a vote the whole order would be in jeopardy. No substantial arguments have been advanced for including the states in the order, the board concluded.

Other proposals rejected include amendments that would have:

—Required processors to share in the cost of the reserve pool and hold equity in it. It may have helped to defray grower costs, but the board said most growers don't wish to give up any of the equity they now hold in the pool.

—Forced growers to purchase their percentage of cherries in the pool and hold them at their own risk. The board said that by allowing an amendment like this, the flow of the market may be destroyed.

—Established a reserve pool after rather than before harvest. Processors said they would lose money trying to compete against this type of pool.

—Exempted juice cherries from the pool obligation.

—Required only grade A cherries in the reserve pool.

—Allowed brokers as well as processors to bid on released pool cherries, making price more competitive.

—Provided for financing for growers who are financially unable to pay for pool costs.

Processors Offer $130 A Ton For Concords, Far Below What Growers And MACMA Expected

Michigan grape processors have offered $130 a ton cash price for Concords, nowhere near the $195 a ton asked for this year's light crop by the Michigan Agricultural Cooperative Marketing Association (MACMA) last month.

Although the grape crop in Michigan this year is expected to be the smallest since 1951 — when growers earned $106 a ton for a 10,000-ton crop — the Great Lakes states as a whole will produce a normal crop, and total U.S. grape production, excluding California and Arizona, will be the best since 1971.

The latest report by growers and fieldmen is that only 7,000 to 8,000 tons will be harvested this year in Michigan, according to Harry Foster, secretary-manager for MACMA's grape grower's division.

The United States Department of Agriculture estimated that Michigan would produce 12,000 tons this year.

Production in the three other Great Lake states — New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio — is slightly above normal, resulting in an estimated 266,000 tons for the four states. Total U.S. production excluding California and Arizona is estimated to be 403,805 tons.

Jeno's Inc., Smuckers (Murch Co.) and Frontenac Wine Co. have all offered $130 a ton for Concords. Generally the figure represents grapes that are 16 brix (except for Frontenac Wine Co.).

Smuckers and Jeno's have offered $3.33 for each brix above 16, or a decrease of the same figure for anything below 16 brix. Warner Vineyards has offered 3 per cent of the paying price for anything above 16 brix and the same decrease for anything below.

Frontenac and St. Julian wineries are paying $175 a ton for Niagaras, while Jeno's has offered $150. Warner is paying $175 a ton for contract Niagaras and $150 a ton for non-contract and for Delawares.

In August the MACMA committee concluded that it would take $195 a ton or better to "get the grapes out of the vineyard." Foster said in some cases growers may be wise to leave the grapes in the vineyard since, depending on one's situation, it may cost more to harvest than processors are paying.

Grape processors in other areas are offering similar prices, Foster said. "In New York I've heard figures anywhere from $150 a ton down to as low as $110 or $100," he added. Michigan processors are bringing in sizable quantities of grapes in from other areas. "They are working with and through the New York processors to secure grapes partially processed for shipment to Michigan. This has minimized the competition for grapes to the New York growers and helped hold the price down."

Foster claimed. Growers were paid from $105 to $110 a ton for last year's 56,000-ton crop. In 1974 growers were paid an average of $184 a ton on a 47,500-ton crop, according to Foster. The short crop in 1973 of 23,500 was worth an average of $197 a ton. The average price quoted by Foster includes prices paid to National Grape Cooperative growers.

USDA Sets Corn Crop Loan Rates For 1976

The loan and purchase rates for the 1976 corn crop for Berrien and Van Buren counties are slightly above the national loan rate of $1.25 per bushel announced by the United States Department of Agriculture in February.

The loan rate for Berrien county is $1.31; the rate for Van Buren $1.27. The prices represent on the average an increase of 15 cents per bushel from 1975, according to James L. Vogt, executive director of the Van Buren county ASCS office.

Adjustments were made to the county loan rates to more nearly reflect area-to-area changes that have occurred in corn prices received by farmers and shifts in production rates. In general, the corn loan program rates reflect the differences due to transportation costs and related factors, Vogt said.

The loan rate for Berrien county's soybean crop is $2.49 per bushel, while Van Buren county's rate is $2.46. The national average was $2.50 per bushel.

Soybean loans are payable over a 12-month period at an interest rate of 7½ per cent.

Hunting Program To Be Phased Out

The 1976 hunting season will be the last season in which private lands will be available for open hunting under the Cropland Adjustment program.

The CAP program, which has been in operation for the past 10 years, is being phased out by the government to put more land into production to meet current export demands, according to Milton Francis, Berrien county executive director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation service.

There has been approximately 60,000 acres of Michigan land open for public hunting without charge under the program. Expirations and terminations have reduced this acreage to approximately 25,000 acres for 1976, according to Dorn Diehl, state executive director of the Michigan State ASCS office.

Milliken Appoints Soybean Committee

Gov. William G. Milliken late last week announced six of seven appointments to the newly established Michigan Soybean committee. The appointments are still subject to state Senate approval.

The committee membership is divided into seven districts in the state which have similar soybean production and numbers of producers. The director of agriculture for the state and a representative of Michigan State university College of Agriculture will serve as ex-officio members.

The committee is authorized to make contracts or award grants for market research or development and is responsible for developing administrative procedures, preparing a marketing policy and publishing reports on its activities.

The half-cent per bushel checkoff was approved in July after a mail referendum was held among soybean producers throughout the state.

Collection of the checkoff is mandatory but growers who do not want to pay the tax can apply for reimbursement, according to Frank Shellenbarger of Leominster, newly-appointed member representing district 1 (Berrien, Cass, Van Buren and St. Joseph counties).

The mechanics of collection will not be determined until the committee meets in the near future, Shellenbarger said.

Appointed to the committee were Theodore R. Landis, Homer; Donald M. Korte, Plymouth; Donald C. Swanbeck, Fenton; Felix Witt, Jasper; and Bernard Neuenfeldt, Hemlock.

The seventh appointment will be announced at a later date.

Shipments Start From New Fertilizer Plant

CF Industries, a cooperative fertilizer and supply company owned by the Michigan Farm Bureau Services and 18 other regional cooperatives, has begun fertilizer shipments to Michigan farmers from its new nitrogen complex in Medicine Hat, Alberta, Canada.

The first tank car was loaded on July 22, according to Donald R. Armstrong, executive vice president of Michigan Farm Bureau Services.

Production at the first new anhydrous ammonia plant began July 15 with the manufacture of 50 tons of ammonia. July 21st production rate reached 1,110 tons, just shy of the daily design capacity of 1,200 tons.

A new granular urea plant at Medicine Hat is expected to begin production soon.

CEDAR LAKE, Ind. (AP) — The American Heritage Dictionary of the English Language has been removed from Hanover Central High School because the school board said it contains four-letter vulgarisms and slang definitions for such words as screw, bang and cherry.

"I don't believe in censorship. ... I'm not a Victorian, a Puritan or what have you," says Hanover Community School Board member Carolyn P. Kenning. "I don't believe in censoring things that are vital to an education, but I don't see where these words are vital to an education."

William C. Lueder, one of two board members who objected to removing the dictionary, said there are about 70 definitions of words which the board found objectionable.

"I'm sure a lot of (the students) know what they are, but I'm saying the book is objectionable for high school," said Mrs. Kenning, 31, one of the four board members who voted to remove the dictionary. "We're being called upon to make a judgment — that's what we were elected for, wasn't it?"

However, Lueder said no formal vote was ever taken on the matter.

"There is no record of such a vote in the minutes of that meeting (in July). It seems to be a unilateral decision by two board members," he said. "They're talking about 70 entries, and there are about 155,000 definitions in the book. To me, it's kind of like throwing the baby out with the bath-water."

A 93-signature petition asking the board to rescind its order was presented this week, a move that Cedar Lake resident Barbara Sack described as only a "small protest ... just to let them know we didn't approve of the way they were doing things."

"I have one girl who's a senior, and they think the whole thing is ridiculously silly."

Lueder said Mrs. Kenning and another board member, Margaret Crasco, "decided to do the censoring for the whole community. This was used by the seniors and the business department. I saw nothing wrong with it."

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. has signed into law legislation giving the terminally ill the right to die without medical treatment — the first such law in the nation.

The Democratic governor considered the historic bill for more than a month before he signed it moments before the Thursday midnight deadline for a veto, signature or passage without his signature.

Brown, who often stages news conferences in his office when he signs precedent-setting measures, avoided making any immediate statement on bill, which opponents said was the first step toward euthanasia.

The law, effective Jan. 1, allows a doctor to shut off lifesupport equipment for a patient whose death is imminent if the patient signs a "living will" authorizing the action.

The bill was prompted by the widely publicized Karen Anne Quinlan case in New Jersey. She lay in a drug overdose coma for more than a year while her parents sought the right to let her die.

A court has permitted her respirator to be disconnected, but she is still alive. The bill would not affect a case such as hers.

Brown's executive secretary, Gray Davis, said the governor "received several hundred communications, both here and in our Los Angeles office. They were divided."

"I think the real question in his mind was today's reality (whether) the way attending physicians and terminally ill patients resolve the difficult problem was preferable or less preferable to the procedures set forth" in the bill.

Opponents said the measure was a step toward mercy killing of the aged, but the author, Assemblyman Barry

Keene, DEureka, said dying persons have the right to choose.

"Will they spend their last few days in a manner befitting human dignity or be kept alive with respirator, pumps on their hearts, pumps on their lungs, pumps on every part of their body?" he asked.

Keene cited the case of Miss Quinlan, but noted that his bill would not have affected her case because only the person whose life is at stake can make the decision.

House Okays Funds For Cow Burial Site

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state House has approved a $250,000 appropriation to open a new burial site in Oscoda County for animals tainted with PBB.

The 82-6 vote Thursday will authorize the Department of Natural Resources to begin formal preparations at the site. The DNR and the Michigan Environmental Review Board already have approved the site to hold at least 5,000 carcasses. One unsuccessfully proposed amendment would have required a county's agreement before the site could be located within its boundaries. Opponents said if counties were allowed to veto sites, the state could end up with nowhere to bury PBB-tainted animals.

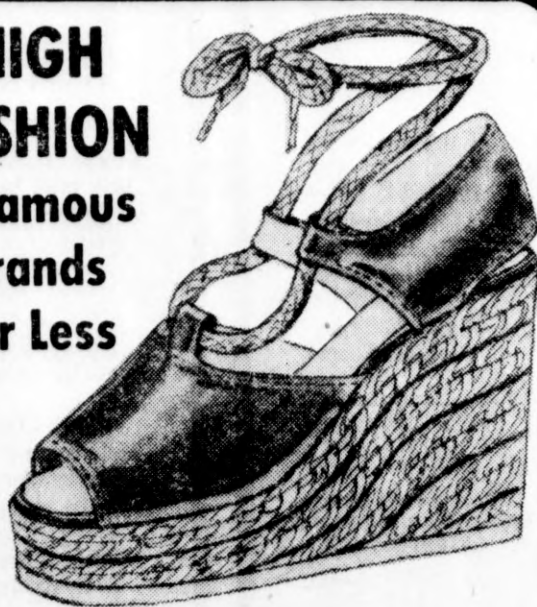

Before the Oscoda County site, about 10 miles north of Mio, can be prepared, the appropriations bill needs Senate approval and the governor's signature.

A burial site near Kalkaska, used since the contamination of cattle feed was discovered in 1974, contains more than 30,000 carcasses and is nearly filled to capacity. Officials fear that more burials there could contaminate the area's water supply with PBB or chemicals produced by decaying animals.

PBB, polybrominated biphenyl, is a toxic fire retardant accidentally mixed with livestock feed in 1973. The animals buried at the Kalkaska site were quarantined by the state because PBB in their bodies exceeded federal guideline limits of 300 parts per billion.

Animals buried at the Oscoda County site would be those that farmers themselves choose to destroy. Some farmers have claimed their animals are too sick to maintain or sell on the market, even though they have only low levels of PBB.

Locke, of Chaparral road, Royalton township, was charged with embezzling the money from John McGulpin, of Niles, from October, 1975, to March, 1976. Previous court testimony said McGulpin signed an agreement to purchase a South Bend cocktail lounge and gave Locke $22,000 to hold in an escrow account until a liquor license was transferred.

The $22,000 was to have been deposited in an account of Locke's former law firm, according to the testimony, but Locke deposited the sum in a bank under a Robert B. Locke trust account and wrote checks for personal expenditures on the account rather than holding it in escrow. Total disbursements had been $13,974, according to the testimony.

Before sentencing, Locke told 'Corsiglia: "I simply wish to see the punishment of practicing law for 38 years and doing something to be disbarred... is a fantastic shock to a man."

He said the one thought he and his wife have is "to do everything we can to make restitution to the clients involved."

Senter said if any attorney is convicted of a felony (which Locke was), or a misdemeanor carrying a sentence of one year, or moral turpitude, the grievance board schedules a hearing before a three-member board, all of whom are lawyers. He explained the board considers the record made in court, and then gives the accused attorney a chance to offer evidence on his own behalf.

Senter said the possible alternatives after the hearing are that the board could disbar the attorney, suspend him for a period of time, give a reprimand, or dismiss the matter if it does not fall within the three categories.

He estimated Locke's hearing would be in about three months, and said the grievance board returns its ruling within 30 days of the hearing.

Police Seize Radar Finders

NEW BUFFALO — State police at New Buffalo said they arrested two drivers in separate incidents yesterday on I-94 on charges of having illegal radar detectors in their cars.

Troopers said "Fuzzbuster" radar detectors were seized in both instances after officers observed the devices on the dashboards of the cars.

Arrested were Francis Crandell, 44, Charlotte, Mich., and James Crill, 34, Highland Park, Ill. Both men were charged with possession of a radio receiving device in a motor vehicle without authorization, officers said.

Crill was stopped about 12:50 p.m. in New Buffalo township after officers observed a blinking red light on the dashboard of a car, officers said.

Crandell was stopped about an hour earlier in Chikaming township after a patrolling officer radioed to other officers a description of a car he had passed with what appeared to be a radar detector visible in the windshield, troopers said.

Benton 'Fuzzbuster' Case Is Dismissed By Judge

BY JOHN FENNELL
Staff Writer

Fifth District Judge John T. Hammond Thursday dismissed a charge of illegal possession of a police radar-detector because the warrant was "improper and didn't charge a crime."

Hammond said the warrant against Raymon Vernon Hill, 44, of 1004 Vineland road, St. Joseph township was improper because it stated Hill should have had permission of Benton township police to carry a radar detector in his car.

Hammond said the statute provides that permission of Michigan State police, not local police, is required.

Hammond ruled the warrant was defective: "As it read, it didn't charge a crime at all so I had to dismiss it," the judge said.

Hill, a representative of R. C. Merchant company, a Michigan distributor for the "Fuzzbuster" detector, was issued a ticket Wednesday for speeding, of the radar device. Hill pleaded guilty to speeding and was fined $10.

Warning Over CB Radio Backfires For Trucker

BY TOM RENNER
South Haven Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN — A Decatur, Ga., truck driver allegedly using his citizens' band radio yesterday to alert other truck drivers to the presence of a state police car with a radar unit, apparently didn't realize he had alerted the trooper too.

Trooper Gerald Lampen of the South Haven post was patrolling I-96 near Saugatuck when he heard the expression "Oh, Oh, Spaghetti's" come over the CB unit he has in his patrol car.

The expression is CB slang warning of a radar-equipped police car.

Lampen said the warning alerted him and he stopped a truck with an illegal radar detection unit mounted in its cab. Lampen said he confiscated the radar unit after issuing truck driver Ronald Ray a citation for illegal possession of the device.

Ray posted $30 bond and was ordered to appear in 57th District court in Allegan within 10 days, Lampen added.

Gallias, 25, both of Jackson, Mich., who were booked at Berrien county jail on charges of violation of the controlled substance act, delivery of marijuana. Noted Educator Will Help Dedicate LMC

Dr. Harold L. Hodgkinson, director of the National Institute for Education, Washington, D.C., will deliver the principal address at the autumn afternoon ceremony Saturday during which Lake Michigan College will be dedicated in its entirety to the people of Berrien County.

Dr. Hodgkinson received his doctoral degree from Harvard University in 1959 in education and sociology. A former director of the Center for Higher Education at the University of California at Berkeley, he has held high administrative positions at Bard College, N.Y., and Simmons College, Boston, prior to his appointment with the National Institute.

Author of numerous books and articles on higher education, Dr. Hodgkinson's most recent books include "The Campus Senate: Experiment in Democracy" and "Implementing the Learning Society: Alternatives for the Finance of Higher Education."

During the ritual, which will start at 1:30 p.m. and will be open to the public, nine individuals prominent in education, industry, politics, and religion, will be awarded honorary degrees by the college for the contributions they have made in their respective fields.

Those to receive honorary degrees include: Dr. James F. Redmond, former general superintendent, Chicago Public Schools; Edward Hutchinson, U.S. representative, Michigan 4th District; Dr. Joseph Schwarz, rabbi emeritus, Temple B'Nai Shalom, Benton Harbor; Raymond Sreboth, superintendent, Berrien County Intermediate School District.

Others to receive honorary degrees include: William A. Vawter, retired president of the former Benton Harbor Abstract and Title Co.; Frederick S. Upton, retired senior vice-president of the Whirlpool Corporation; Walter E. Schirmer, board chairman, Clark Equipment Co., Buchanan; Dr. Clyde C. Colvert, dean of the College of Education, University of Texas; and Dr. Hodgkinson.

The Twin Cities Symphony Orchestra under the baton of its music director and conductor, Robert Vodnoy, will open the ceremony with a concert featuring the music of Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart.

Irene Edinger, of the LMC music faculty, will offer solo renditions of the National Anthem and America the Beautiful, accompanied by the Twin Cities Symphony.

A highlight of the afternoon ceremony will be the unveiling of the carved dedication stone which will be located on the south exterior wall of the college library building. Three well-known clergymen will assist in the unveiling and will bless the stone and the college for which it stands. They will include: Dr. Schwarz; the Right Reverend Charles E. Bennison, bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Western Michigan; and the Most Reverend Paul V. Donovan, bishop of the Catholic Diocese of Kalamazoo.

The ceremony will be conducted with faculty and principal participants in full academic regalia. The invocation will be offered by Bishop Donovan and, at the end of the ceremony, the benediction by Bishop Bennison, after which refreshments will be served and tours of the college facilities will take place.

In the words of William J. Niemi, LMC vice-president for business affairs, who is in charge of the Dedication ceremony, "This probably will be the most solemn and significant event in the life of Lake Michigan College — that moment when it is officially given to the people of Berrien County who through the years have sent their sons and daughters to this college and have supported the institution with their tax dollars."

The college's campus and buildings, valued at nearly $15 million, are located at 2755 East Napier avenue, in Benton township, one mile east of I-94 exit 30. Parking for as many as 1,500 cars is available.

Walls Of Berrien Homes Studied For Fire Safety

BY MIKE WYNGARDEN
Staff Writer

Officials from Benton township, the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and the Berrien Homes housing project met yesterday to launch a study to determine if the apartments' inside walls are fire-safe.

The meeting at the township hall yesterday came in the wake of two fires at the apartment complex off Crystal avenue within three days.

Terry Hansen, loan specialist for HUD in Grand Rapids, said samples of inside wall material will be sent to the state fire marshal in Lansing to determine if the material meets fire safety regulations.

"We're just trying to determine if anything should be done," Hansen said. "We want these units to be safe for residents and not tinderboxes."

Hansen and Wallace Imhoff, HUD maintenance engineer, surveyed fire damage at the apartment complex after the meeting yesterday. HUD is involved in the fire safety question because the mortgage on Berrien homes is insured by HUD.

After the second fire at Berrien Homes Sunday, Benton Fire Chief Ken Kraiger criticized the construction of interior partitions which he said were rapidly burned away as flames spread from upstairs to the lower level.

"I feel that the interior wall covering is not sufficiently fireproof material and would not stop the fast spread of a fire," Kraiger said after the meeting yesterday. "But we intend to do all we can as soon as possible. Everybody here was cooperative."

Hansen said the interior wall covering met township and state requirements when the apartment complex was opened in 1971. He said the state fire marshal will investigate whether the covering may have lost its fire retardant properties since that time.

Present at yesterday's meeting were Hansen, Imhoff, Kraiger, Cathryn Sirk, Benton township clerk; Chester Shuck, township building inspector; Rev. Arnold Bolin, executive director of the Berrien County Council of Churches which sponsors Berrien Homes, Mamie Yarbrough, Berrien Homes manager, and Shannon Madison, president of Berrien Homes board of directors.

Berrien Homes was planned for low to middle income families and has 159 apartment units. The apartment complex was the scene of a fatal fire on July 26, 1974, when Stanley Scott, a Benton Harbor high school teacher died in a blaze that destroyed his apartment at 1798 Council drive. No one was injured in the two recent fires at 1787 Council drive Sunday and 1869 Council drive last Friday.

Township firemen said Sunday's fire appeared to be of incendiary origin while Friday's blaze was blamed on carelessness with a cigarette and matches.

400-Plus Flu Shot Aides Recruited By Red Cross

By MIKE WYNGARDEN
Staff Writer

The Berrien County chapter of the American National Red Cross has recruited more than 400 volunteers to help in the swine flu inoculation program in Berrien County this fall, it was announced last night.

Mrs. Barbara Cooke, Red Cross executive director, said the chapter is still seeking more registered nurses, emergency medical technicians and clerical help to aid the Berrien County health department in running the program.

"It's going to be a giant undertaking," Mrs. Cooke said after the chapter's annual meeting last night. "It is one of the largest projects our chapter has ever undertaken."

The county health department has announced it expects the first shipment of vaccine to arrive later this month.

Norman Ross, Chicago radio-

TV personality and banker, commended Red Cross members last night for their work in preparing for the swine flu vaccination program.

"I'm extremely impressed at the way you have geared up to provide such a large number of volunteers for the swine flu program," he told some 150 Red Cross members at their annual meeting at the First Congregational church in St. Joseph.

Ross said the important point in a volunteer organization is not the donations received, but the commitment given by the community. "The important thing in an organization like yours is not the magnitude of your resources, but the willingness to become involved," he said.

Vice president for the public affairs division of First National bank of Chicago, Ross returned to regular broadcasting for the first time in nearly eight years when he recently began broadcasting short features on radio stations WFMT and WGN in Chicago.

The meeting honored Lloyd Phillips of St. Joseph as Red Cross "Volunteer of the Year."

Phillips is first aid chairman for the county chapter and teaches first aid classes. Members also elected new officers and board members at the meeting last night. Chapter Chairman David Mack and Treasurer Harry Burrelson were re-elected. Donald Robach was elected vice chairman and Mrs. Donald Eppelheimer was elected secretary.

Newly-elected board members are Rev. Donald Entenman, Al Mione, Mrs. Delos Drucker, Mrs. Arthur Preston, Mrs. Everett Wilson, and Terry Stanard. Elected to serve a second term were Mrs. Robert Bean, Edward Irvin Sr., Lloyd Phillips, David Mack and Mrs. Frederick Stout.

Elected to the chapter's newly-created advisory board were Klee Grumbine, Harry Goff, Thomas Millar, Richard Peters and John P. Barlow.

Chapter members also honored several members for their years of volunteer service to the Red Cross. Service pins went to Mrs. Glen Willis, for 30 years of service, and Mrs. Rita Hisler, Mrs. Leland Hill, Mrs. Stephen Roumell and Mrs. Ernest Selby, for 25 years of service.

Also receiving pins were Mrs. Lloyd Both and C.J. DeRuyter, for 15 years; Mrs. Oscar Lambiotti and Lloyd Phillips, for 10 years, and Mrs. Jay R. Clark, William Cahill and George Hamilton, for 5 years.

JOHN KISKA OF JACKSON WEARS MILLION-DOLLAR-SMILE AFTER LOTTERY DRAWING IN NILES YESTERDAY.

Jackson Lottery Club Hits Jackpot At Niles

NILES, Mich. (AP) — The 73-21 Club of Jackson became the 23d winner of a $1 million Michigan lottery prize in Thursday night's million dollar drawing. The club was represented by John Kiska, 33, who said he's been "a winner all my life". He added that, since his boss is a member of the club, all the winners will be able to go on vacation on Friday. The club has 20 members who work at Lu Paul Tool and Die in Jackson. The club got its name from the fact that it started in 1973 with 21 members. There was one drop-out. There were no southwestern Michigan residents in the drawing held at the Stateline Super Mart on US-33 in Niles township. The drawing was held at the market because it was tops in the state in sales of 50 cent tickets during 1975-76. The $100,000 winner was Gerald Gayot, 43, of Washington, D.C., a subscription member of the Michigan lottery. He said he picked the winning numbers by using the digits on the side of his airline flight bag. The $50,000 winner was Beatrice Calati, 55, of Detroit, a housewife. The $10,000 winners were Sadie Conner, 36, of Detroit; Donald Fogell, 58, of Flint; Mary Hensley, 62, of Detroit; and the late James O. Jr., deceased, whose estate was represented at the drawing by his mother. The rest of the 30 contestants at the drawing were awarded $5,000 prizes.

OFFICIAL ANTI-POVERTY AGENCY

BCA May Get Ok This Month

By SCOT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

Berrien County Agency (BCA) will probably be designated Berrien county's official anti-poverty agency by the chairman of the county board of commissioners' planning and social services committee said yesterday. Commissioner Nancy Clark said "it appears BCA will get the designation" when the county board meets Oct. 12. Mrs. Clark made her prediction following a four-minute public hearing on the board's intent to designate BCA as the anti-poverty agency.

The county board earlier this month went on record as intending to give the designation to BCA. The designation entitles the organization to direct federal funding, whereas now federal funds are sent to the state, which then turns most of the money over to

BCA. Mrs. Clark said, however, her support of whether BCA gets the designation depends "on what happens the next two weeks. I want to see a director (named) and restructuring of the (BCA) board. It seems to me nothing has happened."

The designation of BCA has been a continuing hassle with the county board, and in July the board had denied a motion which would have given the designation to BCA, but also voted to look at other organizations which might be named the anti-poverty agency for the county. The July action came in the wake of the dismissal of Helen Ford of Benton Harbor as executive director by the BCA board of directors. Robert Behrman, senior community support representative for the federal Office of Community Services, which provides funds for BCA, said he was pleased the board will apparently give BCA its backing. He noted that although the deadline for giving the designation had been yesterday, the deadline was "flexible" and could be extended until the county board's next meeting.

He said the designation would mean BCA could continue to receive federal funding at about the current level, but directly from the federal government. He noted BCA gets about $71,000 annually from the federal government, but the state takes about $3,000 for administration. Behrman also noted BCA gets some $20,000 for a community food and nutrition program and $15,000 for a home winterization program which are not included in the $71,000 figure, but are special programs.

The only person to speak at the public hearing, Harry Reynolds, a member of the BCA board of directors, said he felt BCA should get the county's backing.

Slager And Smith Matched Saturday

MSU, ND Aerial Show Likely

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — It is likely to rain footballs at Spartan Stadium Saturday if last week is any indication of the aerial abilities of Michigan State and Notre Dame.

Irish quarterback Rick Slager broke the school's completion record in Notre Dame's 48-0 rout of Northwestern, hitting on 86 per cent of his passes — 12 of 14.

Meanwhile, MSU signal caller Ed Smith connected on 18 of 29 flings — the most completions in Spartan history — as Michigan State battled to a wild 31-31 tie with North Carolina State.

Both quarterbacks are considered the cogs in their team's attack, although nobody calls them "great" or prime pro prospects.

Slager, who is listed at 5-11 and 188 pounds and says he's really only a little over 5-9, has completed 21 of 43 passes for 345 yards and five touchdowns in three games. He missed one season with a shoulder separation, but stayed around a fifth year and grabbed the starting slot with a fine spring performance.

The 18th-ranked Irish are on the rebound after being embarrassed 31-10 by Pittsburgh, now rated second in the country, in the season opener. Notre Dame knocked off Purdue before whitewashing Northwestern.

"To be honest, I feel Notre Dame is much better than Ohio State," said MSU coach Darryl Rogers. "They're bigger, very strong and a very fine football team."

Considering the young MSU team got thrashed 49-21 by OSU, that must send shivers down the backs of Spartan fans as the two traditional rivals prepare for their annual collision.

But the Irish are young, too — so young "we don't even take shaving cream with us on road trips," joked sports information director Roger Valdeserri. Slager is one of only two seniors in the starting lineup.

The Irish took 17 sophomores and 10 freshmen to Northwestern, a sure sign of sunnier days ahead for coach Dan Devine. Their leading rusher is junior halfback Al Hunter, with 221 yards, with sophomore fullback Jerome Heavens right behind with 204 yards.

Rogers makes it clear the Spartan defense must stiffen up if MSU is to have a chance to beat Notre Dame, a two-touchdown favorite. "We're going to have to make them play on a long football field," he said.

The MSU defense has apparently been playing on a throw rug so far, however — giving up 342 yards rushing and 30 points a game.

Smith, a junior scholastically but a sophomore for football purposes, has provided most of the offensive fireworks, hitting on 28 of 45 passes for 486 yards and five touchdowns. Tailback Rich Baes is the leading rusher, with 297 yards — almost 100 yards a game — while reserve fullback Jim Earley returns to back up starter Levi Jackson.

AL West Magic Number One

Royals Gun For Clincher

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Kansas City Royals hope to clinch the American League West pennant tonight without the help of the California Angels, but Manager Whitey Herzog will take it anyway he can get it.

"We just want it," says Herzog, "the sooner the better." After weeks of apprehension, the Royals can finally win the West title by beating Minnesota tonight. And even if they lose to the Twins, they can still win the divisional championship if the Angels defeat the Oakland A's later in the evening.

"I'd like to see Frank Tanana go to Oakland and beat the A's," says Herzog, who has been chased down to the wire by Charles O. Finley's gallant team.

Herzog has nominated Doug

Bird to pitch against Minnesota's Dave Goltz in the game at Royals Stadium. However, Herzog is still undecided about a starter for Saturday. He leans toward Dennis Leonard in the event that Kansas City is still in a pennant race.

"But, I'm not certain ... I've got some decisions to make on pitching," says Herzog, hopefully lining up his staff rotation for the American League playoffs against the Eastern champion New York Yankees next week.

Herzog's players, after several weeks of holding off a scary homestretch charge by the A's, at last seem to be breathing easier. A victory over Oakland Wednesday night gave the Royals a comfortable 3½-game lead and reduced their "magic number" to one.

The Royals are so confident of winning their first championship that some of them are looking past tonight's game.

"One victory against Minnesota this weekend is not enough," says Kansas City's Hal McRae. "If we are going to keep any momentum going into the playoffs, we can't win one, lose one and win one again. We've got to keep moving again."

In limited baseball action Thursday night, the Detroit Tigers beat the Cleveland Indians 6-4 and California trimmed the Chicago White Sox 7-3.

Rookie Ron Jackson belted a double and two singles while two other newcomers, pitchers Sid Monge and John Verhoeven, teamed up for a seven-inning California whipped Chicago.

Jackson singled in a run in the second inning, then doubled and scored during a three-run Angels uprising in the fifth to give Monge his sixth victory in 13 decisions.

Indians Offer Robinson New Pact

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Indians lost their final home game of the season Thursday night, but their was no gloom in the clubhouse as the players and coaches reflected on the word that Manager Frank Robinson had been offered another one-year contract.

Neither Robinson nor his business manager, Ed Keating, were talking after Cleveland's 6-4 loss to the Detroit Tigers, but it was reported Robinson had been offered $80,000 to return as manager of the Indians for a third year.

Rusty's Staub's two-run double keyed a five-run eruption in the fourth inning Thursday night that carried the Tigers to their victory.

Detroit rookie Mark Wagner, who had two errors in the field, made up for them with his bat, coming up with four hits, one run batted in and two runs scored. He tripled and scored in the ninth, giving reliever Steve Grilli a pad as he picked up his third save.

Rookie Ed Glynn won his first major league game after three losses, despite some early wildness. Meanwhile, the Tigers jumped all over Cleveland starter Rick Waits, 7-8, chasing him in the fourth.

"Those kids at first, shortstop and third are good looking ballplayers," said Detroit Manager Ralph Houk, referring to rookies Phil Mankowski, Wagner and Jason Thompson. "And Glynn has good arm. But he's pretty wild. If he ever gets the ball over the plate, he's got a major league arm. But control is something you just can't teach 'em. They have to learn themselves."

The Tigers close out the season at Milwaukee, with Ray Bare, 7-8, going against the Brewers' Bill Travers, 15-15, tonight.

A source close to the Cleveland club said Robinson, who has been earning a reported $200,000 as player-manager, was asked back only as manager. Robinson, 42, and one of the all-time hitting stars of baseball, played little the past two seasons because of injury and the presence of regular designated hitter Rico Carty on the roster.

Wake Forest Passing Attack Expected

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — "You cynics can write what you want," says Coach Bo Schembechler, "but Wake Forest will be a better team than Navy."

Well, if the Deacons aren't a better team they're in a lot of trouble.

Schembechler's Michigan Wolverines, ranked No. 1 among the nation's college football teams, crushed Navy, 70-14, last week and Saturday host Wake Forest.

The schools have never met on the gridiron and no rematch is scheduled.

"Wake Forest is the kind of team that can be a lot of trouble for us," Schembechler said.

He has made a habit over the years of saying much the same thing about virtually every opponent. If Michigan rolls to an easy victory he sloughs it off and if the Wolverines narrowly get by he says, "see, I told you it would be a tough game."

Wake Forest — 3-8 last year — has a 2-2 record, having beaten North Carolina State, 20-18 and Kansas State, 13-0, while losing to Virginia Tech, 23-6, and Vanderbilt, 27-24.

The Atlantic Coast Conference Deacons of Coach Chuck Mills are very quick defensively, Schembechler said.

"He reminds me of Brad Van Pelt," Schembechler said, referring to the former Michigan State All-American who plays with the New York Giants of the National Football League. "They call him an All-American and everything. He's a good one."

He said they have a good quarterback in Mike McGlamry and tailbacks in freshman James McDougald and junior John Zeglinski.

Schembechler expects his defensive backs had busy days against Wisconsin and Stanford and he expects them to get plenty of work against Wake Forest.

"Their passing game is something and we gotta give some time this week to working on it," he said.

If sophomore Harlan Huckleby, Michigan's leading rusher, can't start because of a shoulder injury Schembechler will likely move fullback Rob Lytle to tailback. If Russell Davis has sufficiently recovered from a strained thigh muscle and had enough work in practice he would then be the fullback. If not it could be Kevin King.

A crowd of 103,000 is expected in the 101,701-seat Michigan Stadium for the annual high school Band Day game, including 13,000 high school band members.

Big Ten Squads Face Tough Foes

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Michigan's top-ranked Wolverines emerge the only solid Big Ten favorite this week when conference teams take a final whack at intersectional opponents before returning to seven weeks of intraleague competition.

Michigan is favored by more than 30 points to make Wake Forest its fourth victim of the season but the going could be awfully rough for other conference members.

Illinois, Indiana, Northwestern, Michigan State, Iowa and Wisconsin will assume the underdog role while Ohio State, Purdue and Minnesota are cast as favorites.

Ohio State, the No. 8 team in the nation, is favored by a touchdown over fourth-ranked UCLA but the Buckeyes figure to have their hands full against the undefeated and high-scoring Bruins.

Missouri handed Ohio State a 22-21 setback last Saturday for the Buckeyes' first loss at home in 25 games dating back to 1971. The odds makers figure Ohio State will not lose two straight at home.

The game will be nationally televised and the Buckeyes will be out to avenge a 23-10 loss to UCLA in the Rose Bowl which cost them the national title last season.

There will be others seeking revenge this week in games which find Texas A&M at Illinois, North Carolina State at Indiana, Iowa at Southern Cal, Notre Dame at Michigan State, Minnesota at Washington, Arizona at Northwestern, Miami of Ohio at Purdue and Wisconsin at Kansas.

Last year Texas A&M slugged Illinois 43-13, North Carolina State blanked Indiana 27-0, Iowa fell to Southern Cal 27-16, Arizona ran past Northwestern 41-6, Miami dumped Purdue 14-3 and Kansas defeated Wisconsin 41-7.

Purdue is a 12-point favorite over surprisingly winless Miami and Minnesota is a fivepoint choice over Washington to remain the Big Ten's only undefeated team aside from Michigan.

Illinois and Indiana both are three-point underdogs. Southern Cal is favored by 19 over Iowa in a night game on the West Coast. Notre Dame is a two-touchdown favorite over Michigan State and Kansas is a 15-point favorite over Wisconsin in what could be a real shootout.

Wings Consider Suburbs Home

DETROIT (AP) — General Manager Lincoln Cavalieri of the Detroit Red Wings says several groups would like his National Hockey League club to move to the suburbs. And, he says, he's listening.

Cavalieri commented in the wake of reports this week by Tiger owner John Fetzer, who announced a long range program to modernize Tiger Stadium at a price tag of between $10 million and $15 million.

"We are listening to everybody and it is probable that we will move," Cavalieri told newsmen.

Cavalieri said of the Tigers' huge modernization program. "I think it is wonderful what Mr. Fetzer is doing but our situation is different from the Tigers. They have only one thing at the ball park — baseball. We have a lot of different attractions."

Going into Saturday's games, Big Ten teams have compiled a 12-7-1 record against outside foes. If the conference favorites hold up and slight underdogs like Illinois, Indiana and Northwestern can pull upsets on their home fields, Big Ten teams could return to conference wars with an excellent record against intersectional foes.

UCLA Dirty Word In Buckeye Land

OSU Seeks Revenge Saturday

From Associated Press
At Ohio State, UCLA is a dirty four-letter word.
Whenever the subject of last season's Rose Bowl game comes up, Buckeye disciples everywhere vow vengeance.
The Bruins cost Woody Hayes' team a national championship by beating Ohio State 23-10 in the memorable Jan. 1 bowl game at Pasadena. Now it's replay time in Columbus.

"We'll be very, very positive in what we do," says Hayes about Saturday's meeting with the fourth-ranked Bruins at Ohio Stadium. "We've got to go to the field not making these mistakes we've been making."
Hayes is not only acutely aware of the return bout with UCLA's spoilers, but also of the specter of losing two straight games at home. That hasn't happened to Ohio State since 1971.

The Buckeyes, who lost to Missouri 22-21 last week, haven't been the confident bruisers of past seasons. They've made mistakes uncharacteristic of Hayes' teams — piling up almost twice as many penalties as the opposition during their 21 start.
"Some have been earned, some unearned," says Hayes. "It could show a lack of experience more than anything else."

UCLA, although 3-0 on the season and ranked higher than No. 8 Ohio State, will play the role of underdog in this rematch of intersectional powers. And UCLA Coach Terry Donahue doesn't wonder why, considering the intimidation of Ohio Stadium.

"We don't really know how good we are," says Donahue, whose team owns victories over Arizona, Arizona State and the Air Force.

Michigan, the nation's top-ranked team, doesn't figure to have as much trouble with its opposition at Ann Arbor. The Big Ten Wolverines face Wake Forest, an Atlantic Coast Conference team of far less stature.

However, the role of prohibitive favorite has Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler worried. Exercising an old coaching prerogative of pessimism, Schembechler cautions: "Wake Forest is the kind of team that can be a lot of trouble for us."

Another top game Saturday will be No. 6 Georgia against No. 10 Alabama, a battle of Southeastern Conference powers. An overflow crowd of 60,000 is expected at Athens, Ga., for the game between unbeaten Georgia and once-beaten Alabama.

Elsewhere among the Top 10, No. 2 Pitt plays Duke; No. 3 Oklahoma faces Iowa State; Miami, Fla. visits No. 5 Nebraska; Villanova tackles No. 7 Maryland and No. 9 Kansas hosts Wisconsin.

In other games, it's No. 11 Louisiana State at Florida; No. 14 North Carolina at No. 12 Missouri; No. 15 Boston College at Navy; Auburn at No. 16 Mississippi; No. 18 Notre Dame at Michigan State and No. 20 Penn State at Kentucky.

Hartford CC Squad Splits

HARTFORD — Hartford's cross country team split a double duel meet here Thursday, defeating Covert 17-41 but losing to Bangor 27-29.

Crossing the finish line first in 16:40 was Hartford's Mark Manning. Teammate Dennis Frazier was second. Bangor took the next three spots, with Tim Hodge, John Vojtko and James Armstrong placing third, fourth and fifth, respectively.

Finishing out the top 10 were Joe Bunn, Hartford, sixth; Mark Maurer, Bangor, seventh; Amon Hodge, Bangor, eighth; Steve Hawkins, Covert, ninth, and Wayne Bunn, Hartford, 10th.

Hoople Defines Football Terms

BY MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
Omnipotent Oddball

Egad, football fanatics. What is all this upset business in college football?

Although Hoople hit 74 per cent of his picks last week, the ole major couldn't see Ohio State getting beat by Missouri. Woody should be ashamed of himself. But you've got to admit, he does a good chicken imitation.

I can only say that again last week, my secret informer (code named Wrong Pick) gave me a few bum steers. But Hoople got even with Wrong by sending him a free ringside ticket to the Muhammad Ali-Ken Norton fight...on Wednesday.

I have received some mail from you fans about some of the terminology used in sports. I seems that some of the terms are very confusing. So to help the average fan gain a better knowledge of sports, the ole major will define a few terms for you:

Hole In One — the reason you didn't wear your old boots to the last football game.

Down And Out — How you felt after betting the ranch on Ohio

St. Joseph Loses Wild JV Contest

KALAMAZOO — St. Joseph's junior varsity football team lost a wild game 27-22 here Thursday night to Kalamazoo Central's jayvees.

In a game which saw the lead change seventimes, the young Bears were beat on a 92-yard kickoff return in the third quarter.

St. Joe quarterback Jeff Kissel scored two touchdowns on sneaks for the Bears and half-back Don Fedor also had a three-yard TD run. St. Joe's touchdowns all came as the result of sustained drives. Dave Wesner and Kissel both had two-point conversions for the Bears.

Scoring for Central also started in unusual fashion with Bob Snyder picking a Bear fumble out of the air in the first quarter and rambling 31 yards for the score.

Fedor was the Bears' leading rusher with 101 yards on 16 carries. Wesner had 74 yards on 16 totes. Tackle Eric Wolff and strong safety Kissel were the leading Bear tacklers. Besides Snyder's fumble interception and Toby Macon's kickoff return, other Central touchdowns were scored on a three-yard run by Chris Knapp and sneak by Lorenzo on a Little.

The junior Bears are now 1-2 on the year, while Central is 2-0.

Pirate Manager Stepping Down

Murtaugh Led Pittsburgh To Two Titles

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Danny Murtaugh, the craggy-faced, rocking chair strategist who led the Pittsburgh Pirates to two world championships and four division titles, will retire as manager of the baseball club.

The Associated Press learned Thursday that Murtaugh will step down as Pirates manager for the fourth — and no doubt the last — time, perhaps today.

Murtaugh's past resignations have been because of health. He has suffered two heart attacks, been bothered by back spasms and numerous colds which have often kept him from the ball park.

Health is probably part of the reason he's saying goodbye this time, but there are other reasons, too.

He'll be 59 on Oct. 8. And his close friend and boss, General Manager Joe L. Brown, also has announced his retirement. So the two will make their exits together.

Murtaugh's plans were confirmed a day after Brown announced he would step down from the post he'd held for 21 years.

Murtaugh broke into baseball in 1937 and into the major leagues with the Philadelphia Phillies. Later he played second base for the Pirates.

His managerial career began in 1952 when Brown gave Murtaugh his first job with the New Orleans Pelicans, a Pirates farm club. From New Orleans, Murtaugh went to Charleston, W.Va., in 1955, then became third-base coach for the Pirates in 1956. He was named manager in mid-1957 when Bobby Bragan was ousted.

Murtaugh's Pirates won the 1960 World Series — their first championship in 33 years — against the New York Yankees when Bill Mazeroski hit a home run in the ninth inning of the seventh game.

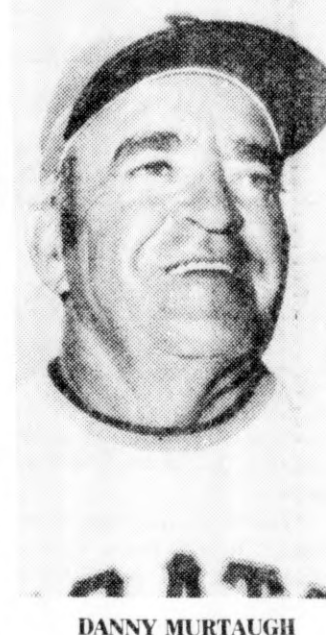

Murtaugh quit after the 1964 season for health reasons, then returned as interim manager in 1967, replacing Harry Walker. He was hired again in 1970 and led Pittsburgh to two consecutive first-place finishes and the 1971 World Championship against the Baltimore Orioles before retiring once again.

Murtaugh came back at Brown's request on Sept. 6, 1973, replacing Bill Virdon.

Murtaugh couldn't be described as an open manager with reporters, never divulging club secrets, seldom discussing reasons for his managerial strategy, rarely criticizing a player. But he was a subtle comic, a great story teller and a warm person.

Milk was his alcohol, the rocking chair his podium, clowning his way of coping with most strained situations.

Fisher's Par Leads Lancers

Mike Fisher shot an even-par 36 Thursday to lift Lakeshore a 167-171 golf victory over Lake Michigan Catholic at Berrien Hills Country Club.

Dave Haslett added a 42, Harry Gnodtke a 44 and Mark Nidiffer a 45 to the Lancer total.

Mike Takacs carded a 41, Jay Franklin a 42, John Korff a 43 and John Korff a 43 and Dave Stokes a 45 for Catholic, now 10-3.

Laker Sweep

Sparked by the Biliskos, Lake Michigan Catholic's seventh and eighth grade football teams each posted victories Tuesday.

Tom Bilisko scored seven touchdowns as the seventh grade Lakers bombed Watervliet 44-0. Bill Bilisko crossed the goal line four times in a 46-8 romp by the eighth grade team. John Bankston added a pair of TDs for the eighth grade.

Vanderboegh Bowls 287

BIRNEY VANDERBOEGH
Fires 287 Game

By AL AREND
Staff Sports Writer

Birney Vanderboegh fired a 287 game at Gersonde's Tuesday night to take over the top spot on the area season leaders board.

Vanderboegh, 35, of Coloma rolled his highest score ever in his first game in the Inter-City Business league. He started with a spare and then cashed in on 10 strikes in a row, before catching the 4-7-10 split on his final ball.

"I was really quite excited after the game," Vanderboegh recalls. Vanderboegh finished the night with a 176 and 123 for a 586 series.

"It would have been great if I could have finished like I started, but I'm happy with the 287," he said.

Vanderboegh, who has been bowling for 20 years, said he carried a 166 average last year. He bowls once a week. Last year he teamed with Steve Harbin to walk away with the Blossom Lanes "Jackpot" prize.

With the season about a month old no man has cracked the 700 barrier yet. However, Joan Haase, Barb Hanrahan and Betty Forray have rolled womens 600s this season. Mrs. Forray tossed a 601 Sunday night at Lakeshore Lanes.

If records are made to be broken here are the area's sanctioned all-time highs: Dick Mak tossed the high series for men, a 783 at Gersonde's in February, 1966. The high men's (five-man team) series is a whopping 3422 by the Schaefer Beverage team at the old Temple Lanes in St. Joseph, Jan. 13, 1941. Many area men have rolled 300 games.

Carol Rohl has the high women's series, a 734 bowled at Temple Lanes, Dec. 16, 1955. Ruth Retz is the only woman to have bowled a sanctioned 300 game in this area. She did it April 24, 1966, at Temple Lanes. The high women's team series is a 2865 by the Auto Clinic team at Gersonde's during the 1967-68 season. The effort was paced by Lois Quigley.

Byers Says NCAA Can Handle New Difficulties

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association, say many of its detractors, has reached a crisis point.

"The NCAA was born in turmoil," Walter Byers says in response, "and has lived in crisis. We've met and dealt with difficult situations before. We will again."

The son of a Missouri cattleman, Byers this week passes the quarter-century mark as executive director of the NCAA, ruling body of collegiate athletics. He was 29 in 1951 when he was named the first full time head of the organization. The next year he moved the national staff, consisting of himself and one secretary, from Chicago to Kansas City.

Today, with a staff of 57, he presides over a sprawling, complex organization of 829 members. With growth and expansion has come added problems and controversies, and, in recent years, a vast upsurge in legal problems. The NCAA has never lost a lawsuit, but in the past three years, a staff member estimates, its legal fees have averaged $1,000 a day.

But Byers, now 54, with a shock of thick, gray hair and a waistline nearly as trim as an All-American's, maintains an optimistic enthusiasm for his job and his organization.

Hawks Topple Beaver Runners

FENNVILLE — Fennville defeated Eau Claire 17-42 in a non-league cross country meet here Thursday.

Gardia, Fisher, Sanchez and McCall took the first four places for the Blackhawks. Eau

Schonbok Paces Dowagiac Win

DOWAGIAC — Dowagiac's girls basketball team ran by Decatur here Thursday night 58-32 in a non-conference game.

The Chiefs' attack was paced by Debbie Schonbok's 22 points and 18 rebounds. Ola Houston Claire's Danny Newman and Bryan Dohm were fifth and sixth, respectively.

In a girls meet, Eau Claire won 23-32 with Beaver Faith Otte taking first place.

Fennville Girls Trounce Cards

BLOOMINGDALE — Terese McFarland pumped in 18 points and Susan Barnes added 11 Thursday night as Fennville's girls basketball team blasted Bloomingdale 68-19.

The Blackhawks, now 5-0, raced out to a 30-2 lead after the first quarter and were never headed. Fennville led 45-7 at the half and 62-13 after three quarters.

Dine, Mead Lead SMC Past Irish

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — Tim Dine and Mike Mead led Southwestern Michigan College's cross country team to a 27-31 victory over Notre Dame's junior varsity here Tuesday.

Dine, a SMC freshman from St. Joseph, and Mead, another freshman from Lakeshore, placed third and fifth, respectively. It was Dine's best performance of the year.

"Mead really won it for us," said Roadrunner coach Ron Gunn. "He was working hard at the last three-quarter mile mark and I yelled 'move up or we're done' and he came through."

As in other meets this season, SMC had no front runner and took the meet by bunching its runners and team depth. Notre Dame's Kevin Kenny placed first in the five-mile race in 26:02. His teammate Joe Strohm was second in 26:18 and Dine was third for SMC in 26:22. SMC carriers placed third, fourth, fifth, seventh and eighth. Mead had a time of 26:41.

Shamrock JVs Blank Bisons

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Todd Johnson rushed for 110 yards and two touchdowns Thursday night to lift Berrien Springs' junior varsity football team to a 24-0 win over New Buffalo here.

Johnson scored on runs of three and six yards and also ran for one two-point conversion. Roger Clayton's one-yard run was the other Shamrock score. Wesley Merrill collected 10 tackles to help Berrien hold New Buffalo to just 74 yards in total offense.

Simpson Effort Far From Super O.J. Held To 105 Yards In Three Games

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

O.J. Simpson has rushed for 105 yards. That's not unusual. But it's taken him three games to get them. That's unusual.

The super-runner of the Buffalo Bills, who made the 100-yard game a commonplace occurrence the past few seasons, has been anything but super this year.

And he figures it's time he got his act together. The curtain-raiser may come Sunday against the visiting Kansas City Chiefs.

"I may not be as sharp as I want for extemporaneous running, making cutbacks and improvising once I get out there. But I think I'm in shape now," says Simpson, who sat out the entire preseason, on the verge of retirement, then rejoined the Bills on the eve of the season's start when owner Ralph Wilson Jr. came through with a bundle of money.

In Sunday's other games it's Washington at Chicago, Dallas at Seattle, Houston at New Orleans, Oakland at New England, Philadelphia at Atlanta, Cincinnati at Cleveland, Tampa Bay at Baltimore, Detroit at Green Bay, the New York Giants at St. Louis, Los Angeles at Miami, San Diego at Denver and the New York Jets at San Francisco. Monday night's game is Pittsburgh at Minnesota.

The Bills are one-touchdown favorites to beat the Chiefs, even though Kansas City has won six of the last seven games against Buffalo. The last time they met, however, it was a big day in a big season for Simpson. He sashayed through the Kansas City defense for 157 yards enroute to his 2,003-yard season and the Bills won 23-14.

Kansas City has won nothing this season. "We've just got to keep building, keep fighting and keep struggling," says Coach Paul Wiggin.

The Redskins were struggling last Monday night, playing nearly five inconsistent periods against Philadelphia before beating the Eagles 20-17 in sudden-death overtime. Despite this, Chicago Coach Jack Pardee says his Bears, slim four-point underdogs, have an exceptionally tough game ahead of them.

"They're undefeated," Padree said. "The Redskins look like a sure thing — with their schedule and everything — to make the playoffs. We're 2-1 ... and Washington will be the first winning team we've faced."

The Cowboys are overwhelming favorites against the winless expansion Seahawks. The futility of the situation is not lost on Seattle Coach Jack Patera. "We have as much chance to beat Dallas as we had against the other three teams," he said with a wry smile.

New Orleans Coach Hank Stram figures a little color coordination at the Superdome may help his Saints upset Houston. He'll have them dressed in their white road uniforms for the home game instead of their usual black and gold.

They've won once this season, last week on the road — in white — against Kansas City. They won four games in the exhibition season, three in a row in the whites.

LMC Opens Pin Season

LANSING —Lake Michigan college bowlers opened their season here Thursday with the women ending up 5-3 and the men 1-7.

The men lost all four to Oakland and went 1-3 with Alpena. The women were 2-2 with Highland Park and 3-1 with Alpena.

Terry Manly led the LMC men with a 507 series against Alpena, while Candy Coates topped the women with a 471 against Alpena.

Shamrocks Win

EAU CLAIRE — Laura Lee tossed in 10 points to help Berrien Springs eighth grade girls basketball team to a 28-18 win over Eau Claire Wednesday night. Eau Claire did take the seventh grade game 29-27, despite 12 points by the Shamrocks' Susan Herman.

Tiger Gal Cagers Tip Buchanan

Despite playing without Carmella Hull, Benton Harbor's girls basketball team came up with enough muscle to top Buchanan 58-52 Thursday night at the Tiger Gym.

Picking up the slack were Sandra Dudley with 19 points and 13 rebounds and Dorothy Logan with 18 points. Hull is still out with an injury.

Patience Vanderbush tallied 23 for the Bucks, but 10 came in the first quarter before the Tigers put the lid on the Buchanan center's scoring.

"We had to get our defense together to stop Vanderbush from coming through and laying the ball up in the middle," Tiger coach Judy Brooks said.

"We put double pressure on her and were able to stop her after the first quarter."

Becky Gray added 11 for Buchanan.

Both teams are now 5-2.

The Tigers also won the junior varsity game 31-19 with Selenia Deloney netting 14.

Panther Runners

Clobber Coloma

WATERLIET — Taking the first six places, Watervliet's cross country team overwhelmed Coloma 15-49 here Thursday.

Chuck Brock and Tim Lynch tied for first for the Panthers, now 7-0. The winning time was 16:54.

Mark Cappel was third, Mark Frazier fourth, Joe Liagenbarth fifth and Kurt Brimele sixth for Watervliet.

Randy Harris of Coloma crossed the finish line seventh.

Lancers Split

NILES — Lakeshore's junior high school cross country teams split a pair of meets Wednesday at Brandywine junior high school. Lakeshore's seventh grade team topped the Bobcats 22-33, while the eighth grade team lost 15-50.

Brandywine's Tom Spain took the seventh grade mile run in 6:25. Craig McCaa and Scott Arick, both of Lakeshore, tied for second in 6:37.

Greg Davis of Brandywine capture the eighth grade run of a mile and a half in 9:47.

WMU In Key MAC Game

Busy Scoreboard Expected At Kazoo

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The scoreboard likely will be busy Saturday when Bowling Green visits Western Michigan in an early showdown of Mid-American Conference football leaders.

The revamped Broncos, last in the MAC and 1-10 last fall, are averaging 26 points in a 2-1 start in 1976. Bowling Green, also 2-1, has been even more productive, scoring at a 30-point clip.

Western Michigan lost seven straight conference games in Coach Elliot Uzelac's first campaign in 1975. Now he has it on the upswing at 2-0 in the MAC, tied for the lead with Ball State and Ohio University.

Bowling Green is the fourth unbeaten team inside the league, having won its lone assignment 53-12 over Eastern Michigan. Western Michigan also took the Hurons 31-13 and Northern Illinois 37-6 for its MAC decisions.

Western Michigan is coming off a splendid showing at Minnesota. The Broncos had the Gophers beaten 21-7 until Minnesota popped across two touchdowns in the last 76 seconds.

Bowling Green also faces a rebounding task after yielding David Turner's 209 yards rushing in a 27-15 setback at San Diego State last week.

Turner entered that game as the nation's No. 3 rusher and now the Falcons run into another topflight runner, Jerome Persell of Western Michigan.

Persell, averaging 177.5 yards in two games, sat out the Minnesota contest with a gimpy ankle. However, he's expected back to face Bowling Green.

"Persell and Turner are quite different," said Bowling Green Coach Don Nehlen. "Persell has excellent quickness and runs very well outside. Turner had about 35 more pounds and was explosive inside."

The Falcons also have a rushing threat of their own, tailback Dave Preston, the school's all-time leader with 2,707 yards. Preston piled up 111 yards against San Diego State.

Ohio is expected to keep a piece of the lead, entertaining injury-ridden Toledo (0-2) in the other MAC assignment Saturday.

Nonconference activity has Kent State playing the Air Force in Cleveland Municipal Stadium, Illinois State at Central Michigan, Miami at Purdue and Northern Michigan at Eastern Michigan in the afternoon and Ball State at Dayton at night.

Northern Illinois is idle.

Loy Norrix Bops Bears

Kalamazoo Loy Norrix broke open a close game in the second half and beat St. Joseph 41-25 in a girls basketball game at the Bear Gym.

The 41 points was the lowest score Loy Norrix has been held to all year. The Knights are now 5-0, while St. Joe stands 1-5.

Sheryl Hemingway and Sherry Zitta each tallied six for the Bears.

St. Joe (6-0) did win the junior varsity game 22-12.

'Demon' Putter Carries Altgelt

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Stan Altgelt made a fond appraisal of the new putter that staked him to a share of the first round lead in the $135,000 Sahara Invitational Golf Tournament.

"It's a goofy-looking thing," he said, "but it gets the job done."

It certainly got the job done Thursday. Altgelt, a 27-year-old tour rookie used the red-and-white striped "Demon" putter — which features a ridge on the face that imparts a forward roll to the ball — in competition for the first time. He one-putted 10 times on the way to a seven-under-par 64 that enabled him to tie Wally Armstrong for the top spot.

"I got it going early and I managed to make some putts," said Altgelt, the first man off the tee.

"I really wasn't very motivated when I was practicing this morning," said Armstrong, who already has assured himself of a spot in the top 60 money-winners and an exemption for next year.

"I told that to my sponsor. He said, 'Well, there's $27,000 worth of motivation out there (the first place prize). That got me to thinking a little."

With that in mind, Armstrong, a non-winner in four years on the tour, played his first nine holes in six-under-par 29 and then birdied his final hole for a piece of the lead.

Don January, a veteran who played the par-fives four under, former U.S. Open champion Lou Graham and Bruce Lietzke were two strokes back at 66, five under par on the 6,800-yard Sahara-Nevada Country Club course.

The big group at 67 included George Archer, R.H. Sikes, Rod Funseth, Steve Melnyk, George Burns, Tom Purtzer, Jim Masserio, Curtis Sifford and Bobby Walzel.

Defending champion Dave Hill could do no better than a one-under-par 70.

Rowe Facing $4,800 In Possible Penalties

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Curtis Rowe could owe the Detroit Pistons $4,800 when — and if — he shows up at training camp.

That's exactly how much Rowe will have accumulated in penalties if he carries out his intentions, as relayed to Pistons officials by Rowe's agent, to stay at his Los Angeles home until the team opens the regular National Basketball Association season Oct. 22 in Kansas City.

Team General Manager Oscar Feldman said Thursday he had spoken with Sam Gilbert, the man representing the former UCLA star in contract negotiations.

"I talked to Sam Gilbert and he indicated to me that Curtis did not intend to arrive until the day before the season starts," Feldman said.

Under the NBA owners' agreement with the players' association, Feldman may assess a player $100 per training day and $250 per game for absenting himself.

Feldman indicated Rowe stands to lose more than cash unless he shows up soon.

"I assume it would be Herb Brown's decision (Rowe) could not be a starter coming into camp at that time," Feldman said Thursday.

Rowe, a five-year starter, was the lowest-paid of all the regular Pistons forwards last season, drawing approximately $100,000 on the final year of his five-year contract. He has said he plans to play out his option unless Feldman agrees to a new, more lucrative contract.

Feldman, on the other hand, contends that the option clause means Rowe's contract is still legally binding. He has said, "I won't negotiate until he honors his contract by being in camp."

Also a no-show at the team's Ann Arbor camp is former American Basketball Association All-Star Marvin Barnes. Feldman says he has no idea when Barnes might turn up.

"I haven't heard from him or his agent," Feldman said Thursday. "I spoke to his financial advisor yesterday and he didn't know where Marvin is."

Although Barnes is only two years into his seven-year, $300,000-a-year contract, he has said he wants to renegotiate to receive some of his deferred payments ahead of schedule. Feldman has refused to renegotiate, but says he will work with Barnes to help solve his financial problems some other way.

BH 19-Year-Old Gets Prison Term

A 19-year-old Benton Harborite yesterday in Berrien Circuit court was sentenced to 2 to 5 years in prison, and two other people were sentenced to jail.

Judge Chester J. Byrns imposed the prison term on Kirk A. Ward, of 895 Pavone street, for entering without breaking at the Disco World record shop, 275 East Empire avenue, Benton Harbor, on July 18.

In other sentences by Byrns: Dennis R. Henslee, 23, of 1969 Hatch street, Benton township, was placed on two years probation, with the first 90 days in jail, and assessed $250 fine and costs for entering the residence of Joseph King in Pipestone township without breaking Nov. 7, 1975.

Sandra Sue Stone, 19, of 215 North Kimmel street, Berrien Springs, was placed on three years probation with 10 weekends in jail, for larceny of cash from Bert Johnson July 18 in Berrien Springs. Byrns also ordered her to make restitution of $300 and assessed another $300 in fine and costs.

Man Sentenced In Crash Death

A Benton Harbor man involved in a car-motorcycle crash which killed the motorcyclist was placed on two years probation yesterday in Berrien Circuit court and sentenced to five months in jail. Judge Chester J. Byrns imposed the sentence on Tommie Lee Moore, 53, of 1015 Monroe street, for Moore's no contest plea to a charge of negligent homicide. Byrns also assessed $600 fine and costs against Moore. Moore was the driver of a car which crashed with a motorcycle June 6 at the intersection of Martin Luther King drive and Main street in Benton township. Killed in the collision was Arnold Pratt, 42, of 970 Edgumbe avenue, Benton township.

RAILROAD OPPOSES FENCE: Chesapeake and Ohio railroad has filed suit in Berrien Circuit court which would again open Miller street in Benton Harbor to through traffic. City of Benton Harbor, defendant in suit, last year vacated portion of Miller, between Ox creek and Second street, which runs between plants of Benton Harbor Engineering, and fence was erected to make Miller dead-end in area. Railroad claims closing of street forces rerouting of piggyback trailers which are loaded onto flat cars in area. Suit contends city did not give railroad opportunity to voice objection to vacating of part of street, and seeks injunction declaring action by city null and void. The portion of Miller which was vacated was deeded to Benton Harbor Engineering by city. (Staff photo)

Hefty State Health Bill Sidetracked

LANSING, Mich. — A 441-page bill aimed at improving health care in Michigan has been sent to the House Appropriations Committee, where supporters fear it may languish for the rest of this year. Protesting that they had too little time to review the bill and weren't sure what it would cost the state, House lawmakers voted 59-37 Thursday to send the proposed new state health code to the committee for review. House leaders had hoped to ram the hefty measure through that chamber before lawmakers adjourn next week for pre-election campaigning. Speaker Bobby Grim has said he favors a joint look by the House and Senate appropriations committees at the bill's potential cost, but wants the bill back before the House when it reconvenes Nov. 15. But some lawmakers, including House Public Health Committee Chairman Rep. Raymond Hood, said they fear the delay may prevent passage this year. Gov. William Milliken has urged the legislature to pass it this year. "If you don't do it now, it probably will never get done," Rep. Raymond Kehres, D-Monroe, told lawmakers. Kehres headed the 22-member committee that wrote the proposed code after some 18 months of work. Hood also said he thought some lawmakers were reluctant to take up the measure, controversial to some health organizations, just before the election. It was Hood's committee that tacked some 100 amendments onto the proposal written by Kehres' committee. But the committee version did not appear on the lawmakers' desks until Tuesday. Besides repealing 137 health laws, the bill would require that certain basic health services, like inoculations and hearing and vision testing, be provided to all Michigan residents no matter what their income. It would also increase the state's share in paying the cost of those basic local programs to 50 percent after four years. A Health Occupations Council with a consumer majority would have certain powers over current independent licensing boards. Lawmakers also said they feared the bill would cost too much money, with some estimating it could cost the state as much as $200 million a year after 10 years. Supporters dispute that figure. They say it would cost a few million dollars a year, but that the legislature could keep the cost down by limiting which local health program it would help fund.

Two Ask Hearings In District Court

Two persons demanded examinations Thursday in Berrien Fifth District court, one was bound over to circuit court, five were sentenced and charges against another person were dismissed.

Demanding examinations were:

James H. Terry, 29, of 710 Madison avenue, Benton Harbor, on a charge of first degree criminal sexual conduct (formerly rape) Sept. 22 in St. Joseph. Bond was set at $25,000.

Roy Lee Campbell, 19, of 524 Pavone street, Benton Harbor, on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon, a broom handle, against Billy N. Perkins Sept. 18. Bond was set at $16,000.

Bound over to circuit court on a charge of third degree criminal sexual conduct (formerly statutory rape) against a 13-year-old girl Aug. 21 in Watervliet was William D. Ferrell, 39, of Red Arrow highway, Watervliet.

Sentenced yesterday or driving with suspended licenses were Gary Daniel Conner, 19, of 1102 Lions Park drive, St. Joseph, three days in jail and $71 or 30 days total and Sam Richard Williams, 19, of 129 Winans street, Benton Harbor, three days in jail and $71 or 30 days total.

Sentenced for impaired driving were L. B. Watson, 49, of Alsip, Ill., $155 or 30 days in jail and Emmett Edwards, 55, of Edgewood court, Red Arrow highway, Stevensville, $102 or 14 days in jail.

Calvin Robinson, 49, of Chicago, was sentenced to fine and costs of $100 or 20 days in jail for possession of an unregistered weapon, reduced from carrying a concealed weapon, Sept. 7 in New Buffalo township.

A charge of assault with intent to murder was dismissed against Darrell R. Allen, 24, of 777 East Main street, Benton Harbor, because the alleged victim never showed up in court to testify, according to District Judge Hugh Black. Allen was charged with assaulting Dennis Shepard May 8 at the East End bar in Benton Harbor. Black said the defense made a motion to dismiss because the prosecution failed to present any witnesses.

Millage Wins Nod In Jackson

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — Voters in Jackson and its suburbs took their financially-stricken school district off the critical list Thursday by approving millage proposals that will bring in more than $8.5 million to school coffers. Voters okayed two of three millage proposals which school officials say will permit the rehiring of most laid-off teachers and will guarantee beefed up academic and athletic programs which had been cut to the bone. School officials said approving the millage averted a possible state takeover of school operations in the Jackson area. A state takeover would have been a last-ditch move to keep schools operating.

PROTEST 'UNFAIR' FIRING

Lawton Officers Get Hearing

By DENNIS COGSWELL
PAW PAW — Charges by two former Lawton policemen that they were fired by the village council because they were attempting to organize a union will be aired during a hearing here before the Michigan Employment Relations Commission (MERC) on Oct. 13.

The unfair labor practices complaint was brought by former patrolmen Bill Walters and Kenneth Anderson, who were fired by the council on Sept. 7. A third part-time officer who was also fired, Dave Lowell, is not included in the action.

Atty. James Brignall who represents the officers said he will ask that the MERC order Walters and Anderson rehired with back pay; issue an order preventing the council from interfering with union organizing; and order the council to pay costs of the action.

Brignall contended yesterday that the two were fired because they had affiliated themselves with the Police Officers Association of Michigan (POAM), but said he would not elaborate until the hearing.

Russell Hackenberg, chairman of the council's police committee, has denied the charge.

Brignall also said the two officers were denied their rights under the veteran preference act because they had not been given a hearing prior to being fired.

Brignall said a governmental body "cannot terminate or transfer a veteran without offering a hearing and they did not get a hearing."

The attorney said the council has offered to hold a hearing during its regular Oct. 12 meeting, but said he expected it to be "a little difficult" in view of the fact of all the other business normally conducted.

At the time of the firings, Hackenberg said the officers had been terminated because of a lack of cooperation with Police Chief Paul Grauman and failure to follow departmental guidelines.

Among the reasons he cited were not enough time put in on patrol; unnecessary wear on vehicles; and that patrol cars were being seen outside the village while not on police business.

Each man also received a letter detailing other personal reasons for the firings, which were not released.

Brignall referred to the reasons in the letters as "vague."

CONVINCING DISASTER DRILL: One of the 60 Benton Harbor high school students who faked injuries as a part of a disaster drill at Mercy hospital gave a convincing performance yesterday. Mrs. Suzette Bruha (left), a nurse at Mercy, said that Donna Singleton's act of a girl suffering hyperventilation was plausible. Getting admittance information from the 17-year-old student is Shirley Bush, a hospital worker. The students pretended that the high school's Technical center on Valley drive had been struck by a tornado. All of the participating students are enrolled in health occupations classes. (Staff photos)

RUSHED TO CCU: Teresa Hudson, a nursing student who took part in yesterday's disaster drill at Mercy hospital, pretended to be suffering a cardiac arrest. Hospital workers connected a respirator and, led by Mrs. Ligsma Varpa, nursing supervisor, rushed the girl to the Coronary Care unit. Students studying nursing and related subjects at the BHHS Technical center took part in the drill. A.W. Chipman, assistant administrator of the hospital, said drills are performed for the benefit of the hospital staff. The staff had "no problem whatever" handling 60 students within an hour, he remarked.

Teens Face Charges

Two Benton Harbor boys, both 16, were to be petitioned to juvenile court on charges of violation of the controlled substance act, city police reported.

Police Sgt. Cyril Fuller said he investigated a car parked in a lot at the corner of Empire and Salem avenues about 9:20 a.m. Thursday because it appeared two youths inside were of school age. He said a small amount of suspected marijuana was seized.

The car was parked across from Benton Harbor high school. The boys were turned over to their parents.

Berrien sheriff's deputies said Charles Henry Bowman, 22, of 108 Quince drive, Benton township, was arrested early today on charges of carrying a concealed weapon and possession of marijuana. He was booked at the Berrien county jail.

Deputies said a car was stopped for a defective taillight in the 200 block of Fair avenue, Benton Harbor, shortly before 1 a.m. Seized from the vehicle were a .32 caliber revolver and a small amount of suspected marijuana, deputies reported.

Benton Harbor police reported they interrupted a burglar last night as he was ransacking the Best Bite Bait shop, 468 Britain avenue.

Patrolman Greg Platts said the burglar fled as police arrived leaving behind some $100 in merchandise that had been placed outside the building.

Platts said police were informed of a burglary in progress by an anonymous caller. A check was being made to determine if the burglar escaped with any items from the shop.

Guy Huddleston, 762 Colfax avenue, told Benton Harbor police Thursday a tape recorder, camera, watch and a telephone answering machine, all valued at $825, were stolen from his apartment.

Benton township police said a $120 CB radio was reported stolen Thursday from the pickup truck of Dwane Lehman, 2052 Red Bud trail, Buchanan, parked at Zerbel GMC Truck, Inc., 1862 East Napier avenue.

Firemen Still Probe BH Blaze

Benton Harbor firemen are still investigating the cause of a fire that extensively damaged a building that formerly housed Ken's TV & Antenna service at the corner of Pipestone street and Catalpa avenue early Thursday.

Deputy Fire Chief John Billups said samples taken from the building were being sent to the state police crime lab in Holland today for analysis. Billups said it appeared a fire started in the northwest corner of the building and another in the attic area at the opposite end of the building.

Billups said owners of the building, Howard Welch and James Lewis, of Benton Harbor, had no estimate of damage to contents of the building used for storage. Billups also reported he learned the building and contents were uninsured.

THE NEW CAPITAL GAINS RULES

If you are among the millions of Americans who buy and sell stocks or bonds, you know that if you held the securities more than six months, you have had a long-term capital gain (only half of which is taxed) or loss (only half of which is deductible). On the other hand, you know that selling your securities within six months has given you short-term gain (taxed in full like ordinary income) or loss (all of which is deductible).

But now the '76 Tax Reform Act may force an important change in your tax strategies. For the dividing line between short-term and long-term is being lengthened. On sales made in 1977, the dividing line will be nine months (even if you bought your stocks or bonds before 1977), and from 1978 on the dividing line will be 12 months (even if you bought your securities well before 1978).

The longer holding period will apply, of course, to any capital assets you sell. The general impact of this change in the law will be to encourage you to hold your property longer so you can qualify for the valuable long-term tax benefit of having only half your profits on sales included in your ordinary income.

The '76 Reform Act also liberalizes the tax benefits you can get from your net capital losses. As of now, if all your sales transactions wind up with a net capital loss, you can deduct only that net loss up to $1,000 of your ordinary income. Under the '76 Tax Reform Act, the amount of income against which you can deduct capital losses will be raised to $2,000 in 1977 and to $3,000 in 1978 and thereafter.

You will get the benefit of these higher deduction limits even if your net capital loss deduction results from capital carry-overs from previous years rather than from sales made in the current taxable years.

You must consider your '76 year-end tax strategy for transactions in securities because of these changes. To illustrate:

Say you bought stock in the first week of June 1976 on which you will have a profit in mid-December '76. You believe you could increase your profit if you hold off selling until early January 1977. But consider that because of the new law selling in December will give you a long-term gain while selling — even at a higher profit — in January will result in a short-term gain.

You would have to wait until mid-March to sell if you wanted to record your profit as long-term gain in 1977. You well might decide it's wiser to take a

Stocks Heading Higher

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market headed up today after three days of declines.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose about 2 points in early trading and gainers took the lead over decliners among the issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers said the market was encouraged by weekly money supply figures released late Thursday by the Federal Reserve showing a record $2.8 billion drop in the money stock. The drop was taken as a good sign by traders hoping such declines may lead the Fed to loosen its credit reins.

Today's early prices include American Telephone & Telegraph, up 1/4 to 60 1/2; General Motors, up 3/4 to 57 3/8; and U.S. Steel, up 3/4 to 50 1/4.

On Thursday, the Dow Jones average fell one point to 990.19, extending the Dow's loss over three sessions to nearly 23 points.

Losers narrowly led gainers among issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

Big Board volume was 14.70 million shares.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index eased .01 to 91.26.

NAACP Won't Get Reprieve In Suit

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The judge who ordered the NAACP, and 128 individuals to pay $1.25 million in damages for a 1960's boycott of white merchants is remaining firm in his order.

"I have no authority whatever to overrule the legislature of the state," said Chancellor George Haynes. "I cannot eliminate bond altogether. I am without authority to extend the time in which an appeal might be taken."

Haynes refused Thursday to grant a new trial or reduce the bond — set at $1.56 million — that the defendants must post by Saturday if they wish to appeal the judgement.

Frank Parker, attorney for the individual defendants, said he would take the case to the state supreme court in an attempt to delay the collection of damages during an appeal.

Appearing before Haynes Thursday, NAACP lawyers sought a reduction of the appeal bond and a new trial in the court fight that began after a black boycott of white merchants.

Haynes said "it gave me no pleasure whatsoever" to deny the association's requests but that he was bound by law.

The NAACP said that despite a nationwide fund-raising drive, it would be unable to collect the needed amount by Saturday. However, a spokesman in New York said the group was in the process of arranging loans to meet the bond.

The judgement was ordered after the court ruled that 12 white merchants in Port Gibson were victims of an illegal secondary boycott. The boycott was aimed at pressuring merchants to work for concessions for blacks from local government.

"The assertion that these white merchants actually ran the government is certainly in error," Haynes said.

He said the $1.25-million damage figure was arrived at with the help of an economist and three certified public accountants.

Parker criticized the state law requiring the posting of bonds equal to 125 per cent of a judgement during appeal.

"What we have here is classification based on wealth," he said. "It means the poor cannot appeal."

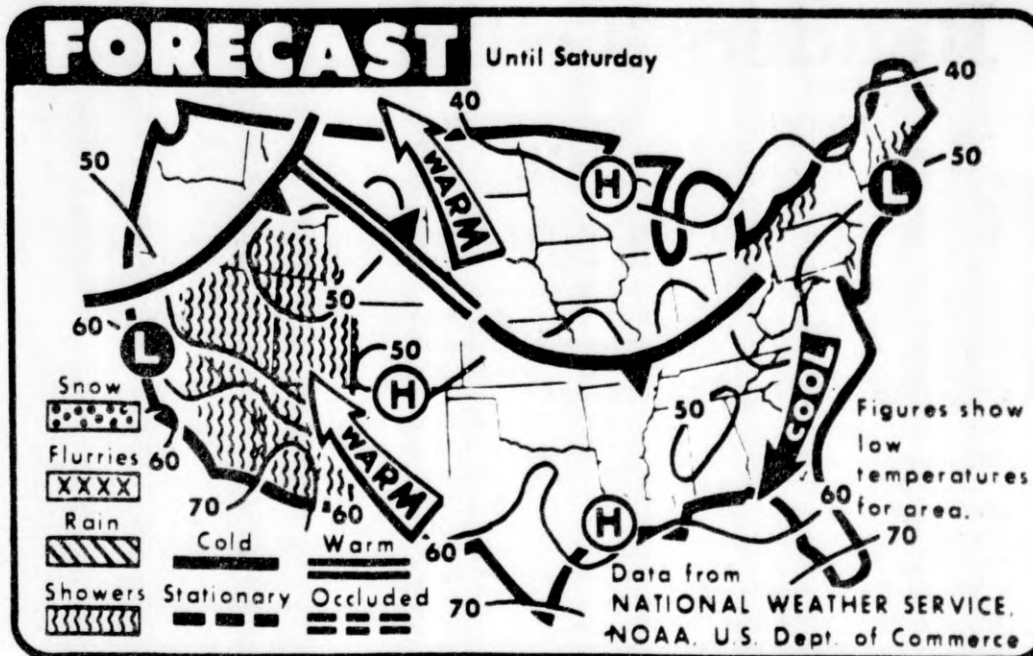

He said the bond will mean "the NAACP is destroyed as an organization and the defendants are bankrupt."

VICTOR GREER Commissioner Sues Joseph For $1,750

Berrien county Commissioner Victor Greer has filed civil suit in Berrien Fifth District court claiming that former Benton Harbor Mayor Charles F. Joseph owes him $1,750 in an unpaid loan.

The suit was filed early this week and claims that in October of 1975 Greer, president of Durable Products, Inc., loaned Joseph $2,000 and has only been paid back a fraction of that amount.

According to a promissory note filed along with the suit, the loan was due Nov. 15 of the same year. The suit alleges that Greer has made demands for payment of the loan but to date has only received $250 toward the balance.

The suit seeks the remainder

Now See Here! BY BERT BACHARACH

PHYSIOGNOMISTS SAY a square mouth, when open, indicates a happy-go-lucky personality. If the mouth is broad, it suggests ambition and aggression... Sometimes the intuition of a Libran (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) is uncanny, but much of it can be traced to their ability to weigh, compare, reason and deliberate... From my old "Book of Romance" (circa 1890): "Never tell a man so much that nothing is left to his imagination."... Unlikely Acts: Taking a dim view, being caught redhanded, keeping an eye out, knuckling under and grandstanding... Gaylord Hauser advises you gals, "If you're smoking too much, double up on your vitamin C. If you drink too much, double up on all your vitamins, especially the B complex."... Celebri-Tip from Debbie Reynolds: "Curled lashes will give small eyes a larger look."... Bar-Snooping at the Riviera, Vegas: For extra zip, sprinkle a bit of ground nutmeg atop a glass of apple cider.

FAMOUS LAST WORDS "I know how to handle Las Vegas gambling. I set a limit of losing and nothing on heaven or earth could get me to bet another penny!"... Graphology Note: In a writing of light pressure, when the signature is deliberately done with heavier pressure, it is a desire to impress others that the signer is more aggressive than he or she really is...

Beauty Hint from Larry Mathews: If you have a pale or sallow complexion, use a foundation makeup with pinkish tones to bring out highlights... "In some parts of Mexico, they attach a split potato to the head as treatment for sinus trouble... Dieters: Green pepper strips make a good munch for dieters. A medium size pepper has only 16 calories... One NYC store is offering a 14-karat soda straw. (Isn't that what you've always wanted?)

FADED PHRASES: "He's in an awful pickle" and "She acts like she's the Queen of Sheba."... Favorite sandwich of Celeste Holm: Corned beef topped with cream cheese and sliced cucumber on toasted bagel... One of Columbia's biggest problems in filming "The Front," the Woody Allen picture about TV blacklisting in the early '50s, was "the top." Many of the actors were reluctant to cut their hair short in the style of the period... Had you ever realized that it's impossible to keep your eyes open when sneezing? (P.S.: Do you care?)... Three people fainted at the London premiere of "The Omen." (That's a good sign!)...

HELPFUL QUICKIES: Next time you have a bad taste from smoking or drinking, try chewing a piece of plain white bread... A little lemon juice in your bath will cool and soothe the skin... Rubbing alcohol will remove lipstick stains from linens.

Roaches Bugging Your Asthma?

CHICAGO (AP) — Suffering from asthma? You may have "the bug" in more ways than one.
Dr. Benn Kang, a Chicago medical researcher, says that a high percentage of asthmatic patients are allergic to cockroaches.

In a report in the Journal of Allergy and Clinical Immunology, she suggests that after cockroaches die and disintegrate, they become part of the house dust which is inhaled. This is the method by which the insects are thought to cause asthmatic attacks.

Dr. Kang is in the department of medicine at Mount Sinai Hospital Medical Center and a faculty member at Rush Medical School. She is a native of Taegu, Korea, and a graduate of Kyung Buk National University medical school there.

She reported that when, in her experimental study, 22 patients suffering from asthma inhaled cockroach derivatives, 16 of them had asthmatic seizures. And 13 of the 16 had delayed as well as immediate attacks.

Dr. Kang said she since has increased her study to include 60 patients, and that the results were the same.

Only recently have cockroaches been suspected to be a cause of asthma, and Dr. Kang said many doctors would fail to recognize these insects as a cause.

The asthmatic patient who lives in a place infested with cockroaches will have repeated attacks of asthma, she said.

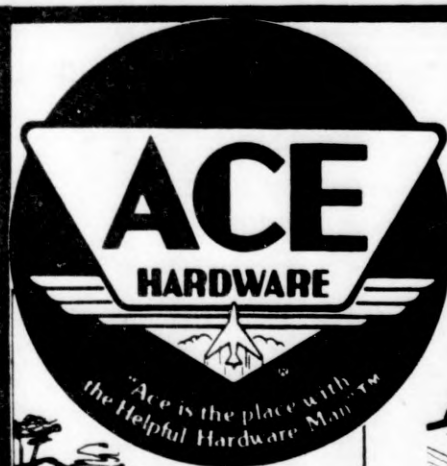

She is giving patients desensitization treatments to eliminate or reduce the allergic reaction to cockroaches. This treatment is similar to ragweed and other desensitization treatments.

Cockroaches may be an especially important factor in causing asthma in winter when patients spend more time in a closed environment and have greater exposure to house dust, she said.

The lifespan of a cockroach is six to nine months, and during this time each female produces 500 to 900 offspring.

Dr. Kang noted that under poor housing conditions it is virtually impossible to exterminate the pest. Even though individual apartments may be clean, the insects continue to live in other parts of the building.
